Counter-Offensive On Japanese In Burma Is Being Planned

NEW DELHI, May 8.—United States Air Corps fliers bombed the Japanese-held port of Rangoon, Burma, for the fifth time early today.

The dock area of Rangoon, through which the Japanese have been supplying their Burma invasion forces, have suffered extensive damage from attacks by American forces under command of Maj. Gen. Lewis Brereton.

The U. S. fliers, operating heavy bombers from the base in India, started many new fires.

The raid was made extremely difficult because of thunderstorms, a communique from the United States headquarters said.

The docks and other target areas of Rangoon were successfully attacked, however, it was said.

Japanese fighter craft failed to attempt an interception and all the United States planes returned safely to their base.

Gas Ration About Three Gallons Says Henderson

By WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 8—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today that the basic gasoline rationing unit starting May 15 will fall "somewhere between two and three gallons a week, probably nearer two."

Henderson made his statement as he prepared to testify before a House Interstate Subcommittee. He said flatly he would tell the members there was "no prospect of getting the unit above three."

The limitation will affect the seventeen eastern states and the District of Columbia where gasoline rationing is slated to go into operation a week from today.

Henderson said the unit allowance would apply to about one-third of the nation's cars—"the cars not used for work purposes."

Henderson told newspapermen: "I don't see how I can avoid giv-

Ration Figures In Chicago At Puzzling Total

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 8—Unless somebody's round figures are too round, Chicago may have thousands of sugar-loving ghosts to account for.

Registration officials reported today that approximately 3,600,000 persons signed up for sugar rationing here in the four-day registration ended yesterday.

The 1940 census placed the windy city's population at 3,396,000.

City officials pointed out that even the influx of war workers in addition to normal growth could not account for so large an increase.

PITTSBURGH, May 8.—Western Pennsylvania motorists, civic officials and oil producers were jubilant today at Price Administrator Henderson's announcement that western Pennsylvania, western New York and part of West Virginia would not be included in the gasoline-rationing program starting next week.

Henderson, appearing before the House Interstate Commerce Committee in Washington, personally confirmed earlier reports that the retioning program had been modified to eliminate the western Pennsylvania area, where storage tanks were near the bulging point with surplus gasoline.

Incomplete Registration Near 100,000

With ten schools not yet reported, the total applications for sugar rationing books showed a total of 96,700 for Lawrence county today. This does not include about 2000 men who are in the armed forces. On this basis it appears that the population of Lawrence county is over 100,000. The total books issued (not including missing districts) was 90,979.

Thursday's registration was below that of each of the previous three days. On Thursday there were 17,776 applications and 16,851 books issued.

The registration was conducted in this county with a minimum of inconvenience and delay. Due to the efficient system worked out by the school heads the county was divided alphabetically into four blocks.

The registration required many hours of tedious work by school teachers of the city and county but they did it without complaint.

May Halt Private Auto Traffic Into 17 Coast States Under Ration Plan

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The office of defense transportation today considered plans to halt travel by private auto into 17 Atlantic coast states, comprising the summer playground of the east.

The transportation agency and the price administration made it plain that the government does not want motorists from other sections of the nation traveling in the east after gasoline rationing begins May 15.

Reluctant to bring hardship to the multi-billion dollar vacation industry, including the lake and mountain regions and New England resorts, WPB officials nevertheless were emphatic in stating that there just won't be enough gasoline for vacation and tourist travel in these areas.

Battle Greatest Since Jutland Is British View

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 8.—What Great Britain regarded as the greatest naval battle since Jutland raged in the blue waters of the Coral sea today, with the fate of Australia perhaps hinging on the outcome.

Every scrap of news from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters was read with avid interest and initial reports indicated that the Japanese were clearly on the losing end.

The first communique from Tokyo alleging heavy American losses was discounted, mainly because the enemy claimed to have sunk a British battleship of the Warspite clas. No vessel of this category—or any British battleship whatever—is participating in the operations, the admirality said in an official announcement.

General Sales Tax Pressure Is Increasing

Congress Circles Seem To Be More Strongly In Favor Of Proposal

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Renewed pressure for a general sales tax was manifest in congressional circles today, apparently strengthened by treasury demands for still greater revenues to be derived by lowering individual exemptions.

Members of the tax writing ways and means committee, meanwhile, privately expressed indignation over repeated upward revisions in administration tax demands, which, they insisted, only contributed to further delay before a bill is finally drafted.

Calling for an additional $1,100,000,000 revenue from individual incomes, the treasury proposal for lower exemptions would hike the "take" from this source to $4,300,000,000 and bring the total of the new tax bill to $8,700,000,000.

Treasury tax experts laid the stress on inflation when they explained the new plan to the ways and means committee in executive session.

Independent economists have estimated that lower exemptions such

Greatest Naval Clash Of War In Progress In Australian Area

American Guns Send Jap Aircraft Carrier And Cruiser To Bottom Of Sea, In Addition To Nine Other Warships In Running Sea Battle—Most Important Sea Clash Of Pacific War Under Way—Macassar Straits Battle Is Exceeded In Magnitude—May Settle Fate Of Australia

By LEE VAN ATTA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, May 8.—With 11 Japanese warships, including an aircraft carrier and a cruiser, already sunk by American guns, a major naval battle raged north of Australia today that may spell success or failure of Japan's attempts to invade this island continent.

Five other Japanese vessels were seriously damaged as United States warships and bombing planes swept into action.

There was every indication the naval engagement would prove to be the most important clash of the Pacific war to date, exceeding in magnitude the battle of the Macassar Straits in which Japan lost at least 40 per cent. of a 100-ship fleet.

The battle ranged over a wide area of the Azure Coral Sea south of the Solomon Islands. Ships and planes of the opposing fleet both played an active part. Latest reports said that eight enemy planes had been shot down in the engagement.

Neither side made any announcement as to losses. The Japanese claimed to have sunk two American aircraft carriers and a battleship and damaged a heavy cruiser as well as a British battleship. The British admiralty immediately pointed out that no British units of this class were involved.

Report From MacArthur

A communique from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, listing only a portion of the 11 enemy ships known to have been sunk, said:

"A great naval battle is now taking place in the southwest Pacific area."

The battle still was in progress as night fell and the lights blazed in General MacArthur's headquarters.

Fragmentary reports continued to flow in telling of the progress of the clash, without a doubt the most important battle of the war to date.

Newspaper correspondents cheered like fans in the bleachers when an army spokesman officially announced the sinking of an enemy aircraft carrier and high ranking officers made no effort to conceal official pleasure over the apparent sharp reversal of the trend in the Battle of the Pacific.

For all their vainglorious claims of losses inflicted upon the United Nations fleet, the Japanese up to a late hour had not conceded a single loss of their own.

The communique announcing the engagement was the first issued by Vice-Admiral Herbert F. Leary, U. S. N., Commander of Anzac Naval forces, since he took over the command, which in itself emphasized importance of the battle.

Australians Surprised

Fury of the American attack surprised Australians, who read the first communiques with utmost excitement. All newspapers published them under banner headlines.

Most of the American Naval officers now in this area are veterans either of Pearl Harbor or the Java Sea Battle. Their desire for revenge may at last be realized in this encounter.

Definite outcome of the battle may not be known for several days.

But it is not exaggerating to say that the American fleet has won stunning if not astonishing victories in the first phases.

Congress May Take Summer Recess

May Adjourn For July And August

Many Members Believe Summer Respite Needed This Year

SOME BIG MEASURES ARE STILL PENDING

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 8—Congressional leaders today mapped plans for adjournment during July and August under an arrangement by which both the senate and house could be summoned back into session to meet a possible war emergency.

Although congress refused to adjourn before the nation entered the war, leaders indicated that there is a general change of feeling with many members urging a summer respite.

All major appropriation bills, it was pointed out, must be passed by July 1, the beginning of a new fiscal year. Since congress has granted huge appropriations and vested wide power in President Roosevelt for directing the war, leaders say that there is little likelihood of important legislation being proposed during the summer.

Postpone Final Enactment

A recess probably would mean postponement of final enactment of the proposed $7,600,000,000 tax bill until September. The house is expected to pass the measure during June. The senate financial committee will open hearings immediately after the house acts.

"My disposition would be to press ahead with hearings and work on the tax bill, but this could be carried on with congress in recess," said Sen. George (D) Ga., chairman of the finance committee.

Both the senate and house faced a task in disposing of huge money bills in the next seven weeks.

A battle is expected in the upper chamber next week on a "rider" to the Agriculture Supply Bill, prohibiting sale of surplus farm products at less than parity prices. Despite President Roosevelt's opposition to the legislation, leaders admit that it will be approved by the senate.

MAY HALT AUTO TRAFFIC INTO 17 COAST STATES

the rationed territory after May 15 will be given no further consideration than that accorded residents of the 17 states, they pointed out. For example, that a motorist from Michigan or Ohio entering New York or Pennsylvania and running short of gas will have to register at a local rationing board. In such cases the motorist will be issued an "A" ration card. This will entitle him to seven units of gas—"or just about enough to get him back to his home state"—as one official put it.

Thus, if one unit will entitle a motorist to five gallons, the most he will be able to purchase while in the rationed east will be 35 gallons. Latest estimates are that the final ration order will be from 2½ to five gallons a unit.

Must Stop Waste

WPB officials will not predict the full extent of plans to curb travel by outsiders in the 17 rationed states, but they say that the "useless waste" of tires and gasoline must be stopped.

To prevent motorists within the rationed area from purchasing gas in non-restricted states, the OPA said, that a zone, 50 miles wide, will be established around the 17-rationed states. Within this zone filling stations will be permitted to sell only to motorists with license plates from a non-restricted state. Thus a Georgia motorist will be unable to "slip" over the line into Alabama to fill his tank. He will have to drive at least 51 miles, OPA officials say.

May Exempt District

Meawhile, it was learned that the key three-state industrial area of western Pennsylvania, western New York and northern West Virginia is to be exempted from gasoline rationing.

Instead of the border lines, the office of petroleum coordinator has fixed a line extending from western Lake Ontario in New York to a point just west of Harrisburg, Pa., according to Rep. Samuel A. Weiss (D) Pa.

Assurance of this revision in the rationing map was given to a Pennsylvania delegation by Ralph K. Davies, deputy coordinator, according to Weiss.

Thus removed from the "gas-dry" area will be thousands of defense workers in scores of war-production industries at such centers as Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Johnstown, Weirton, Altoona and Erie.

Although the line submitted by J. H. Marshall, geographer of the oil coordinator's office, cuts deep into central Pennsylvania, it will not include Harrisburg, Weiss said.

"All of western New York state from the western end of Lake Ontario, all of western Pennsylvania—including Altoona—and northern West Virginia will be exempt," he declared.

straight into the line of American fire and learned for the first time what it means to meet American gunnery on even terms is believed to have swept southward from the Marshall Islands.

British observers believed the enemy was aiming a further encirclement of Australia by a landing on the Islands of New Hebrides or New Caledonia, where American troops now are in action, or perhaps even more ambitiously attempting an invasion of Australia itself.

The gravity of the situation as expressed by Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia was fully re-echoed in London, where fresher news was anxiously awaited.

Should the Japanese claims be substantiated, losses on both sides would be about equal. The admiralty's announcement, however, had the effect of making the enemy claims look fabricated from start to finish, but there was no way of knowing.

Britain was cheered by General Douglas MacArthur's first statement that American losses were "light," at least in the initial stages.

GREATEST NAVAL CLASH OF THE WAR NOW IN PROGRESS

triumphs for United States warships was greeted with delirious enthusiasm. But the House lapsed into sombre silence when he dealt with the threat that still exists.

"The war has reached a stage where happenings of great magnitude are clearly at hand," he said.

The known score of the United States forces included:

Sunk: One aircraft carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats, one transport and one supply vessel.

Damaged: One aircraft carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser, one 9,000-ton seaplane tender and one cargo vessel.

The damaged cruiser also was battered severely. The communique said the battle was continuing.

Fighting Continues

"Heavy naval and air fighting continues," the announcement said.

"In addition to the previous enemy losses reported our forces now have sunk one enemy aircraft carrier, and badly damaged a second, which it is believed will be a total loss. We have also sunk one heavy cruiser and badly damaged another.

"Our own losses are not reported."

The "previous enemy losses" referred to in the communique included the seven warships and one supply ship which the navy department in Washington yesterday announced had been sunk.

A communique issued earlier by General MacArthur reported that the naval engagement, which began Monday was still continuing and that "our losses are light."

The communique issued yesterday in Washington concerning Monday's United Nations naval victories against the Japanese represented only the beginning of the naval battle, it was pointed out here.

Running Sea Battle

Reports reaching General MacArthur's headquarters here indicated that the engagement had developed into a running sea battle, with the United Nations forces driving in against the Japanese with concerted sharp attacks backed up by strong air support.

Reliable sources pointed out that any enemy moves southward through the area of the battle would render the Japanese highly vulnerable to air and sea attacks because of the element of surprise which the United Nations can employ to their advantage by striking out from many available bases.

The exact locality of the naval engagement was not disclosed although General MacArthur said United Nations units had made light attacks on enemy shipping in the Louisiade archipelago. These islands are just south and midway between New Guinea and the Solomon Islands.

A Japanese transport was destroyed in the Louisiade archipelago action.

General MacArthur based his communique today on developments occurring after the navy department in Washington announced that eight Japanese ships had been destroyed Monday.

Pa Newc discovered, a day or two since, that one youngster in the North Hill district had secured a collar with a bell attached and paced it around the neck of his cat in order that birds would be given warning of the approach of the cat. It's a good idea that could be followed by more cat owners in the city.

For the first time in months, the Senior high school had a singing assembly yesterday. The teachers told Pa Newc that the students enjoyed it so much that it would be repeated each week if possible, but the tremendous overcrowding in the high school made it hard to arrange things like that. Pa Newc came by just as the assembly was closing and it did his heart good to hear those young clear voices singing the national anthem.

Walking around town, Pa Newc can not help but notice and wonder that so many New Castle people keeping calling them "Defense" Bonds, and display posters with that designation. We are not fighting for defense any more; we are at war now and when Uncle Sam goes fighting, he wades right in with both fists swinging. So let's call them "War" Bonds and mean it.

GAS RATION ABOUT 3 GALLONS SAYS HENDERSON

ing the committee the estimate on our basic rationing unit. The unit with the 50 per cent cut is going to fall somewhere between two and three gallons a week, probably nearer two.

"I am going to say two with no prospects of getting it above three.

"The important thing is that this will apply to about one-third of the cars not used for work purposes."

Henderson, in speaking of the 50 per cent cut, referred to the present curtailment in deliveries to filling stations.

Motorists deemed essential in the war efforts will be allowed varying amounts ranging from three to five gallons a week, but physicians, ministers, taxicabs operators and similar persons will receive unlimited amounts, Henderson said.

Here is the way he said gasoline will be rationed:

GROUP "A" (Non-essentials) — Two to three gallons per week.

GROUP "B" (Essential workers, etc.) will be divided into three categories according to their varying requirements, as follows:

GROUP B-1—About three gallons per week.

GROUP B-2—About four gallons per week.

GROUP B-3—About five gallons per week.

GENERAL SALES TAX PRESSURE IS INCREASING

as proposed would draw more than half of the increased revenue from "family" men with incomes of $3,000 and under.

The treasury proposed that exemptions be lowered from $1,500 to $1,200 for married couples, from $750 to $600 for single persons, with $300 allowed for each dependent instead of $400 at present.

If this program were adopted, it would produce an estimated 6,900,000 new tax payers who would pay $100,000,000, while persons already paying taxes would pay an additional $1,000,000,000.

Discussing the proposal for lower exemptions versus a general sales tax, Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., chairman of the committee declared, that "it is a question of which of the two taxes would be fairer."

Asked which method he preferred, Doughton replied "I don't like either."

One committee member said that a sales tax would be less likely if the committee decided to adopt the latest treasury proposal.

"I doubt that the committee would slap a sales tax on the public on top of that," he declared.

During yesterday's hearings, treasury economists testified that there would be $40,000,000,000 in the hands of the public this year, with nothing to buy with the funds.

They estimated that $20,000,000,000 of this "excess" money would find its way into savings of some kind, including war bonds. The remainder, it was declared, would be competing on the public markets and contribut to inflation "if adequate steps are not taken."

The economists argued that general ceilings on prices, and rationing, must be accompanied by an "appropriate" tax program, if inflation is to be avoided.

SOVIET ARMIES IN HEAVY THRUST NEAR LENINGRAD

where supplies are arriving almost daily from the United States and Great Britain.

The London Daily Mirror said the Berlin radio had admitted the latest Soviet advance in the Murmansk sector.

Unofficial estimates in Moscow placed German losses in the Lake Ilmen vicinity below Leningrad at 30,000 killed and wounded, during the last month. All German attempts to regain the initiative and resume their march toward Leningrad in this sector have been repulsed, it was said.

Predicts General Offensive

The Moscow radio today predicted that general offensives by the United States, Britain, Russia and their allies on all fronts would be more likely this spring than "any particular German offensive."

Its winter campaign has enabled the Red Army to make dispositions for "full development" of its own offensive this spring and Adolf Hitler's much-advertised blow against the Soviets is not feared, the radio said.

A communique supplement said seven German planes were shot down during aerial battles Wednesday. Five Russian planes were lost, it was said.

BRITISH FORCES ARE OCCUPYING BIG NAVAL BASE IN MADAGASCAR

day that the pre-occupation terms now are meaningless in light of the resistance put up by the French.

On the island today, British forces consolidated their positions in the Diego Suarez harbor while officers conferred with the French authorities over final terms of the surrender of Antsirane.

Reports from Vichy said fighting was continuing in other parts of the thousand-mile-long island, but no confirmation of any organized resistance was issued in London.

In a Madrid dispatch, the London Daily Mail quoted Vichy reports saying that huge reinforcements of British troops from South Africa and United States Army units, with masses of artillery and planes, were pouring into Diego Suarez to make it impregnable to Japanese attack, but the reports were not confirmed by any reliable source.

The Daily Mail Dispatch said the Madagascar harbor would be consolidated as a powerful British naval bastion.

Capitulation of Diego Suarez was confirmed in Vichy by the announcement of a message from Armand Annet, governor general of Madagascar, who said French defenders battled heroically against overwhelming odds.

Annet promised continued resistance elsewhere on the island.

LAY IT ASIDE, FOREVER!

THE Ways and Means Committee seems wisely to have decided to lay aside the proposal to increase the social security taxes to an extent that would raise $2,000,000,000. The suggestion originated in the White House and was passed on to the commitee, somewhat gingerly, by Secretary Morganthau. Chairman Doughton promises that the scheme will not be considered in connection with the revenue bill. If it is ever considered during this war it should be killed. What with new taxes and higher living costs the employe in the lower brackets cannot stand another levy of one per cent on his pay envelope. The employer, particularly the small business men outside the defense industries, the man who sees his products limited and his customers going into war service, will be lucky if he can still pay the tax as it stands. Thousands of his kind are already on the brink. Increase of a tax which is imposed on outgo and not on income, on loss as well as on profit, would push him over the edge. Then the tax collector would meet him no more.—New York Sun.

CORREGIDOR, SYMBOL OF HEROISM

Written in blood on the pages of history, a new synonym for steadfastness and courage to the bitter end has been given the world by American and the Philippines. It is Corregidor.

As the island fortress guarding Manila Bay joins Hong Kong, Manila, Singapore, Batavia, Rangoon and Bataan in the grim list of Japanese victories, all praise and honor go out to Lientenant General Wainwright and his valiant American and Filipino troops who, knowing there was virtually no hope of rescue, stood bravely to the last against their merciless besiegers.

With the fall of Bataan about a month ago, it became plain that Corregidor was doomed. The Japs controlled the sea and the air in that zone. Following General MacArthur's arrival in Australia from Bataan on March 17, long-distance American bombers were sent to raid Japanese holdings in the Philippines; but sustained counter-attack, except with the defenders' own resources, was not feasible.

Corregidor did not fall in vain. It has given the whole United Nations an example of fortitude under enemy fire. It has delayed Japan's march of conquest. But Americans cannot but feel the greatest regret that the gallant defenders of the island had to surrender.

It is five months since the Japanese struck their treacherous blow at Pearl Harbor. In those five months we have been fighting a defensive campaign in the Pacific and have suffered depressing losses—though on Midway Island and in some parts of the Philippines sturdy defenders still hold out.

We have made isolated forays by sea and air at Japan's outposts. We have, presumably, made at least one large-scale air raid on Japan proper. It would appear to be time for us to resume attacks aimed at Japan or at her long supply lines.

To win this war in the shortest possible time we must bend every effort to attack Japan's own islands with everything we have. We must strike hard and soon, not merely to avenge the heroes at Bataan and Corregidor, but to free the world from Tokio's brutal aggression. To crush the Axis we must defeat not only Berlin but Tokio.

THE NAVAL SITUATION

With respect to every phase of this war the fundamental problem is that of arresting the progress of the aggressor nations. Except along the Burma Road, where the Japanese continue their advance, and where the gilded pagodas and the splendor of Mandalay have been reduced to rubble over which the hurrying feet of the invaders have passed in their onward sweep toward the swift conquest of Burma, this purpose is being accomplished.

Germany has not only been halted but also thrown back on the Russian front. Nazi supremacy in the air has been lost and German men and women and children now know something of the agonies of the British, the Poles, the Greeks and the Dutch, who have seen their homes blasted into dust. And now, after a long and hard struggle and disheartening reverses, the menace of the submarine is being brought under control.

Admiral Stark's statement in London, where he has gone to command United States naval forces in European waters, is restrained but encouraging. The effective operation of German U-boats in American waters is being minimized and the situation is gradually being brought to a point where it will be possible to strike offensively at the Axis on the principle of calculated risk. "Reckless and unprepared action only losses wars," commented Admiral Stark. This is a statement of truth which Americans must keep in mind as they strain at the leash and demand offensive action, while realizing, of course, that only through such action can the war be won.

There is tangible basis for Admiral Stark's confidence. Coincidental with his statement, four destroyers were sliding down the ways at ship yards in New Jersey. Two merchant ships are being launched every day and 100 naval units will take to the water this year. And next year, Admiral Stark adds, the total will be even greater.

Defeat of the submarine threat is as vital to victory in this war as it was in the last. This conquest may be considered as one of the certainties of the war, as also may Allied aerial supremacy, by reason of the incomparable production capacity of the United States. Gradually, by slow and painful processes, the enormous advantages of the Axis powers, gained through years of preparation for the war, are being whittled down. The way is being cleared for retribution.

Nothing would make Petain, Laval and the other French Quislings more jittery than they already are except a few loads of bombs dropped on Vichy by RAF planes.

Bible Thought For Today

Whether we like it or not, we must go along with God's program. He wants to lead us by love, trust in Him. Rebellion is futile and silly. We cannot have a world to our special order: Nevertheless, not what I will but what thou wilt.—Mark 14:

Hints On Etiquette

Don't cry when your boys go off to camp. The least you can do for them is to send them off with a smile and cheer. It's good manners to let them know they don't possess all the grit.

Arnold has forced our corporations to break contracts with German firms—thus enabling them to do their duty without being sued after the war.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LEARN TO ENJOY CHILDREN

WE PARENTS should enjoy our children's company and they should enjoy ours. When they grow up and have families of their own, their choicest memories ought to be of their days living with us.

In order to enjoy our children best, we parents must plan and work together for their wise upbringing, having begun this planning together before the first child was born. Then we should continue to plan and work companionably with each other, revising together from time to time our failures and successes, as the child grows older.

Self-Discipline

One barrier to our happiness is in our human frailties, of course, and our difficulties in managing ourselves. We should strive continually at self-discipline and not be too much discouraged when we slip. None of us can be be perfect.

Furthermore, in order to enjoy our children and help them enjoy us and one another, we must train them, from their early years, in good habits of routine and in respect for the rights of others and regard for constitued authority, in an atmosphere of sympathy, understanding and love. To do this requires constant thought and effort.

Establishing Control

There can be no happy companionship if we are forever getting on one another's nerves. They must learn early that there are some things they must never do and some things they have to do, as members of the family. This control we must establish with as little annoyance to them as possible. Procedures in this direction I discuss from time to time in this column.

Where is the happy family in which the child has not learned the alphabet of obedience? We as parents just can't be lovely and good-natured most of the time if we are constantly scolding and nagging so that our children are constantly vexed at us. The chief cause of our nagging and scolding is our failure to establish the few necessary controls well. Let us aim to clear the decks and keep them clear most of the time, establish a few essential controls and try to help the growing child more and more to assume responsibility for his own right conduct.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What is the average vocabulary of a two-year-old?

A. About 270 words. A chart giving the size of vocabulary of the average child at various ages may be had without cost, by writing me at 285 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. Should the mother who does not have to work deny herself social pleasures in order to be home when the child returns from school in the afternoon?

A. Yes; for most days. I can hardly think of any better measure for home morals in these times than for mothers to be nearly always home at such times, even to welcome the child in the high school. Too many parents, especially of the upper economic brackets, are neglecting their children—not a very patriotic practice now.

Who says American women are short and dumpy?

A survey gives their average height as 5 ft. 3 1-16 inches.

It was needed for garment and pattern construction.

It may be good data for dress manufacturers.

It is not a satisfactory conclusion for the rest of us.

Is there an "average" American woman?

We have various race stocks and various types of build.

These measurements were taken of women in stocking feet.

Allow 2 inches for shoes and the height is 5 ft. 5 inches.

The height and build of American women is improving.

They're not all movie stars—neither are they short and dumpy.

THE TEST

Ex-Ambassador Walter Hines Page was formerly one of the editors of Worlds Work, and, like all editors, was obliged to refuse a great many stories. A lady once wrote him:

"Sir: You sent back last week a story of mine. I know that you did not read the story. For as a test I had pasted together pages 18, 19, and 20, and the story came back with these pages still pasted; and so I know you are a fraud and turn down stories without reading same."

Mr. Page wrote back:

CONTRADICTED JOHNSON

Dr. Johnson's famous dictionary, according to a writer in the London Sphere, in its first edition contained the statement that "the letter H seldom, perhaps ever, begins any but the first syllable." John Wilkes, wit and politician, fell afoul of this assertion in this ingenious note: "The author of this remark must be a man of quick appre-hension and compre-hensive genius, but I can never forgive his un-handsome be-havior to the poor knighthood, priest-hood, and widow-hood, nor his in-humanity to all mankind."

GIVING ROOM LARGER APPEARANCE

"I have a very tiny bedroom which I am about to redecora Can you give me any suggestions for effects which might make it appear larger than it is?"—Young Girl.

Answer: If possible, your woodwork should be light in color, preferably white or ivory. Decorate your walls in either light green, light blue or pale peach paint or paper which will give a widening effect to your walls.

If you prefer wallpaper, choose that which is plain or with a small, inconspicuous design, and shun diamond-shaped figures, which will come forward and make your walls seem closer together. Your ceiling should be lighter than your walls to give it the appearance of height. Try the new ceiling tint paper.

A single or three-quarter bed, if practicable, will be a space saver. Furniture of small scale should be selected to conform to the size of the room.

Omit draperies, using instead criss-cross glass curtains with a short valance or, better still, no valance at all.

Question: Please tell me whether in marking a monogram one should place the last initial in the center with the first and middle initials on either side, or if they follow in order first, middle and last.—A. N.

Answer: There are some people who insist upon having monograms marked with the last initial in the center, the first and middle initials on either side of it. But the usual and correct arrangement is to mark them in their proper sequence; for instante, M.L.S. for Mary Louise Smith.

Question: Tell me, please, how to eat cheese and crackers served after dinner.—H. H. H.

Answer: If served with a salad, a piece of cheese may be broken off and put on the salad or a cracker with the fork. At table, hard cheeses should be eaten with the fork. Soft cheeses shoul be spread with the knife.

Senator Norris Will Not Be Candidate
Departure Of Veteran Will Leave Void
Began Career Almost Thirty Years Ago

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Washington won't look natural without Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who won't be a candidate for re-election in November, on the ground that he's too old—81. He isn't the oldest senator, at that. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia beats him by a couple of years, and he not only isn't retiring but is one of the most gingery solons on Capitol Hill.

Senator Norris, though, says he feels old.

In point of service Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Dakota is the upper congressional chamber's senior member, with three more years in his present seat than Senator Norris, who began in 1913, has occupied his. Senator Smith's term isn't expiring now, however.

The term of Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leaders on the solons' floor, is expiring, though, and he's after another one, despite the fact that he's fifth on the list of seniorities at his end of the Capitol building.

Besides Senators Smith and Norris, Senators Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee and Hiram W. Johnson of California, who aren't up for re-election next November, fit in ahead of him.

Capper Will Win

Then after Senator McNary comes Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, who IS running and will win in a walk, it's assumed in Washington, if sunflowers still bloom in his home state. Next following Senator Capper is Senator Glass, already referred to.

Thirty-two senators come up at a clatter, but those seven are the veterans.

No, Senator Norris isn't quite the dean of the group in the upper legislative branch. Nevertheless, he's served longer in Congress than any other individual, for he began with several years in the House of Representatives—all told 39 years.

He started as a Republican but he always was an exceedingly liberal one. When the Republican Progressives developed an organization, he was a charter member of their group. Gradually he became transformed into a 100 per cent Progressive, without more than a nominal Republican qualification, and the last time he was elected it was as an out-and-out Independent.

Yes indeed, he'll be nonpartisanly missed, as a personality. Plenty of his associates, some of whom didn't indorse all his advanced ideas, would have dissuaded him from retiring if they could, reckoning that he'll be a net loss, regardless of their disagreements with him on certain issues. They hate to see him go back to McCook, Neb., to die, but his mind seems to be made up.

On rather different grounds, Representative George Holden Tinkham's announcement of his refusal to be a candidate again for a seat at the other end of the Capitol, from his Massachusetts district, has attracted a good bit of attention.

Representative Tinkham is picturesque. With his departure congressional color will fade.

No More Whiskers

His Republican political utterances have been good listening to, even by lawmakers who dissented from 'em. But, aside from that, for at least a generation he's sported the only full set of whiskers in the House. There are few whiskers at all today, but those who still wear a modicum of 'em keep 'em under strict control. Representative Tinkham's run absolutely wild. And, between congressional sessions, it was George's regular custom to visit the African wilds, and, personally, shoot lions, tigers and elephants, bringing stuffed fragments of their remains back for the Smithsonian and similar institutions. He may do the same thing in retirement, but it won't have the same pep.

He isn't so very old—a mere 72

One Man's Opinion

(International News Service Staff Writer)

We are spending thirty million dollars for a line to carry power from New York City to Massena, N.Y., almost on the Canadian border.

We have a new aluminum plant there and also a power shortage.

Now that the plant is completed and the power line is being built we are going to have another aluminum plantin New York City.

Anyone who asks why that wasn't done in the first place probably is an old sixth columnist with a Japanese uncle and a carried pigeon that lives outside of Berlin.

Come to think of it, the State Utilities Commission asked why that wasn't done in the first place.

The State Utilities Commission said it knew all along that there wasn't enough power at Massena for the new aluminum plant.

So we built it . . . and it is supposed to produce aluminum for this war. And the power line is just started.

Thought for the Day: Thirty million dollars!

The World and the Mud Puddles

PLENTY OF SUGAR—BUT.

The citizens of the United States find it very difficulty to understand why sugar should have to be rationed in one-half pound lots a week for each citizen; why the government should have to spend so much money in printing and distributing sugar books to all the citizens and maintain an espionage upon the citizens just because, pursuth, the Priorities Board says there is not enough sugar to go around unless we are very careful with sugar.

Up to April first, the Island of Porto Rico has harvested 700,000 tons of sugar and only a mere 175,000 tons of this have been brought to the United States. The remainder is spoiling in Porto Rico. The same story goes for Cuba. Total shipments from Cuba to this country amount to approximately 400,000 tons as of April first and this leaves 1,700,000 tons of sugar in Cuba, also spoiling.

That is a whole lot of sugar. Besides this, there are acres of cane in the two Islands being left uncut in the fields. There is no room to store any more sugar either in Cuba or Porto Rico.

Why is all this? For five years the President delayed coming to grips with the merchant marine question—involving ocean shipping, coastwise and inland water borne commerce. Year after year, the matter of a Secretary of Transport, with powers of a Nelson to unscramble a criminal confusion in the national field of transport, has been avoided in Washington like the plague. The President has been afraid of the issue and the State Department does not believe in ships or it not did not until Hull and Wells awakened rather late. The explanation of the sugar situation is that there are no ships to carry the sugar. Fear of German submarines, evidently deter what few ships might be used to transport the sugar and it is high time our Nation's Navy found a satisfactory method of dealing with the submarine menace.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

Although to seem boastful about it I'm loath,
I still want to tell of the magic of growth,
And how in the breadth and the length of a day
Some new charm appears and an old slips away.
So start up the music and just watch her prance!
Ellen Elizabeth's started to dance.

Baby that was, just a day or two back,
Chooses a record from out of the stack;
Begs for the rhythm of brasses and string,
Kyser or Dorsey, Glenn Miller or King.
That, I remark, doesn't happen by chance.
Ellen Elizabeth's started to dance.

Won't be two years till the summer has fled,
Won't be two years till the apples turn red.
Still, though you think me a boastful old bore,
She is as wise as a youngster of four.
Never was one with such speed to advance.
Ellen Elizabeth's started to dance.

Start up the music or hum her a tune.
Lightly as petals from red roses strewn
Blown by the breezes, in time with the beat,
She'll glide about on her fairy-like feet,
A smile on her lips and delight in her glance.
Ellen Elizabeth's started to dance.

HAPPIGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

On the occasion of her sixteenth birthday, Princess Elizabeth, heir presumptive to hte British throne, made her first official public appearance when she reviewed the Granadier Guards, of which she is colonel-in-chief.

All those who witnessed the ceremony were impressed by her good manners, her courtesy and poise.

To England it was a symbol of the country's tradition, of dignity and stability, of pomp and circumstance.

Modernity is apt to scoff at ceremony and symbolism.

Yet, there is beauty and majesty about such demonstration, proof that there is something higher than the every-day routine of making a living.

Who can escape the spell of a Sunday service in church? Who is not thrilled by the color and music of a parade?

Nature herself is putting on a glorious spectacle this season of the year and every human soul is the richer for it.

Let's keep our symbols and our rituals, they add dignity to our lives and beauty to the drabness of our days.

When Congress says something is "discretionary," it means: "We are passing the buck to some official."

Finds Soviet Confident Of Defeat Of Germans

(Editor's note: It is "impossible to exaggerate" either the fighting spirit of Russia or the confidence of the Soviet peoples in final victory, International News Service War Correspondent James E. Brown concludes in his first dispatch from Moscow, after making the long trip from England in a Murmansk-bound convoy. Brown has returned to the Soviet capital after a three-year absence during which he was assigned to the I.N.S. London bureau.)

By JAMES E. BROWN
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, May 8.—The Soviet Union is determined to finsh its job against Adolf Hitler within a year, and most Russians are convinced it can be done.

This is the outstanding impression I have gained after a thousand-mile trip across Russia and a series of talks with Red army soldiers, air force fighters and foreign observers.

Morale certainly is high in Russia. Food is naturally not as plentiful as when I was last in Russia three years ago, but I saw no evidence of malnutrition.

During part of my trip to Moscow from Murmansk, I travelled on "hard cars," using a sleeping bag, but later was able to transfer to a first-class train, comfortable and well-heated. The journey was a slow one because troop trains and munitions cars were given the right of way.

Since my arrival in Russia I have experienced bombing raids in only one city, where I was forced to spend a week awaiting a train for Moscow—but those attacks were red hot ones. The Germans came over three or four times daily and interspersed their major assaults with almost constant "sneak" raids.

Sees British Support

I saw striking evidence of British support for the Soviet war effort. For example, I was told that British Hurricane fighter planes are doing a magnificent job for Soviet airmen. I witnessed several aerial dog fights and saw some "Jerries" shot down, but no Soviet losses.

Royal Air Force personnel stationed at this particular city paid high tribute to Russian pilots, saying that individually they were superior to the Germans.

It seemed noteworthy that work in the plants and business establishments of the city ceased only briefly during the air raids, although the authorities prefer to have the workers go to raid shelters.

I can reveal for the first time that the Soviet-American alliance has been sealed with American blood.

While visiting some Russian hospitals, I talked with several American boys, but I cannot say where nor can I disclose the nature of the injuries they suffered during this war on Europe's eastern front without giving information to the enemy.

All are receiving excellent care and expressed gratitude at the extreme kindness of their doctors and nurses. I also visited two graves.

I had understood that the bombing damage to Moscow was "slight," but after walking about the city for a day without guidance or restrictions and also driving 10 kilometers outside and cycling through the suburbs, I can vouch that no Briton would consider that Moscow had ever been bombed.

The ring of defenses outside the city, erected when the German advance was threatening, is still intact, but few Moscow residents believe it will ever be used.

Much of the evacuated population has not returned to the city, so Moscow is noticeably less-crowded than it was when I was here the last time. All public services are functioning regularly, however.

Summing up my first impressions of Russia at war:

It would be impossible to exaggerate the fighting spirit of the country or the optimism with regard to final victory.

The initial setbacks, the failure to relieve Leningrad, the shortages of certain commodities are all regarded as mere temporary phases which will have no real bearing on the final outcome of the struggle.

Ham hasn't been accused of having had his own hand in 'em, but it surely has been implied that he was careless in not spotting 'em, if they were simmering, as charged before various investigators and grand juries, including an indictment or so.

BLAST DESTROYS OAKLAND PLANT

(International News Service)

OAKLAND, Cal., May 8.—An explosion caused when an employe tried to light a furnace rocked the Par Soap Co. works in Oakland early today, destroying the plant and wreaking damage estimated at $300,000.

The employe, Thomas Shearer, was blown across the room by the blast and crawled from the plant on his hands and knees. He suffered burns about the face and hands.

The six-alarm blaze brought out all available fire apparatus. The explosion was heard for several miles and was followed by flames that could be seen for a great distance.

The plant is located only a mile from the Oakland airport and many area residents who heard the explosion at first believed it had occurred there.

One fireman was severely burned.

Still Expect Area Exemption In Gas Plans

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 8—Recommendations have been made to the War Production Board to remove Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia from the gasoline-rationing area, several Pittsburghers who visited the capital for a "show-down" on the issue, reported today.

Members of the delegation of Pittsburgh oil company and auto club officials who made the trip, said they were informed by Deputy Oil Administrator Ralph K. Davies that the W.P.B. would probably approve the recommendation, and issue a formal order within the next three or four days.

Davies was quoted as saying that he had suggested a demarcation line from Lake Ontario southward between Altoona and Harrisburg, and that the territory west of that line be released from the scheduled restrictions. He added however that if means are developed to draw off Western Pennsylvania's excess gasoline and move it eastward, restrictions probably will be imposed in the future.

U.S.O. Service Will Plan For Expansion

Details of USO expansion in its second year which have made necessary the $32,000,000 budget for which the USO War Fund Campaign is asking America's support, were made public yesterday by Roger W. Rowland, chairman of the USO campaign in Lawrence county.

"This estimate of the funds needed," Mr. Rowland stated, "is based on a careful study of the known costs of the USO clubs and other service units now in operation, and the additional units that will be needed because of increased personnel in our army and navy. Operation of the greatly increased number of services in our off-shores bases as well as here within the continental United States makes the increase in this year's goal necessary."

Mr. Rowland stated the expectation that USO clubhouse and other unit services within the United States, now numbering 620, will reach a total of 940 before the end of May, 1943. In addition to the 40 units now planned for our men overseas, he said, "there will certainly be need for further increased services."

Mobile field units serving troops on detached duty away from clubhouse areas are expected to increase from the present 34 to at least 49. The 39-troops-in-transit lounges in railway and bus terminals are expected to number 100 before June, 1943.

Performances given by USO-Camp Shows, Inc., to the soldiers, sailors and marines at 225 military posts will probably exceed 6,000. There are now 26 professional companies touring the country and providing free entertainment in the post theaters.

"This large expansion of all USO services to keep pace with the growth of our army and our two-ocean navy," Mr. Rowland declared, "will require a minimum of $32,000,000 in the coming year. This calculation of funds needed has been reviewed and endorsed by the Federal government authorities in Washington."

Native Whites Are On Increase

Steady Growth Is Shown In Pennsylvania During Past Two Decades

85 PER CENT OF FOLKS IN CLASS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8 — The number of native white persons in Pennsylvania has steadily increased during the past two decades, the state planning board announced.

The 1940 census disclosedf that approximately 8,454,000 of the commonwealth's inhabitants, making up 85.4 per cent of the total population were of native white origin. Twenty years earlier the percentage was only 80.8 or slightly more than 7,000,000.

The number of foreign born white persons has declined during the past twenty years, the board added. This number has decreased from 1,400,000 or 15.9 per cent of the total population in 1920 to 973,260 or 9.8 per cent of the population in 1940. This decline is attributed to the revision in immigration laws.

The number of negroes in Pennsylvania has never exceeded 500,000 although the percentage of the commonwealth's colored population has slowly increased, Mark S. James, secretary of the commerce department and chairman of the board, reported.

From a total of 285,000, or 3.3 per cent of the state's total inhabitants in 1920 the number of negroes increased to over 470,000 or 4.7 per cent of the total, until the 1940 census.

Races other than the negro and native whites make up a very small part of the population, never exceeding one per cent. In 1940 there were but 3,019 persons of the yellow and red races living in the commonwealth.

Defense Council Orders County Control Centers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8.—Issuing its first regulations under the new powers granted it by the Air Raid Precautions Act, the State Defense Council today directed all county councils to establish and maintain one or more control centers. These control centers, already being set up in many counties, issue commands to civilian protection corps during air raids.

County defense councils were also given the responsibility of coordinating the work of local defense councils and of instituting protective measures in areas not served by local councils. Still other rules issued under the new act for the most part formalized and clarified duties already being carried out by county defense councils.

A number of other rules, including one governing the control of all traffic in Pennsylvania during air raids and blackouts, are being drafted now for approval and promulgation by the state council.

Simultaneously the state council announced that two statewide meetings would be held soon. One will lay plans for a week-long farm salvage drive and the other will enlist the participation of Pennsylvania's 1500 waste material dealers.

To Graduate At Penn State

Margaret C. Harper

Margaret C. Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. G. Harper, of 309 Boyles avenue, will be among the 1100 students to receive a degree from the Pennsylvania State College at its commencement on Sunday, May 10.

Miss Harper, who graduated from New Castle High school in 1937, will receive the degree of Bachelor of Science in Home Economics. She has been elected to Pi Lambda Theta, national education honorary fraternity, and has been active in the Home Economics Club, the Rifle Club, the Swimming Club, and the Penn State Airmen

A brother, Lieut. Edwin R. Harper, also graduated from Penn State. Miss Harper transferred to the Pennsylvania State College from Slippery Rock State Teachers College.

Refuse Ration Books To 220,370 In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8—Ration books were issued during the first three days of sugar registration to 7,417,400 persons, with 220,370 people being refused ration books because they had more than the allowable amount of sugar in their possession, State Rationing Administrator T. Elmer Transeau disclosed today.

The tabulations by the state office were made on the basis of virtually full returns from all of the 67 counties, but they did not include yesterday's registrations.

All Junkyards To Be Licensed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8 — Federal Price Administrator Leon Henderson today announced that all junkyards and dealers selling paper, rags or metal scrap will be licensed.

The dealers will be automatically blanketed into the licensing system on May 20, and will be forced to register with the OPA on or before June 20.

Henderson explained that "effective control of dealings in waste and scrap is imperative because of the significant role of these materials in war production."

Governor Lehman Not To Run Again

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., May 8.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election and that he will not accept renomination if it is offered to him.

"I shall not be a candidate for re-election," said the governor in a statement. "If nominated I will not accept the nomination. When my duties as governor are over I expect to devote all my time and energy exclusively to the war effort."

Bar Cameras As Giant Stack Is Felled Here

No Visitors To Be Allowed On Grounds Either When Stack Is Toppled

If you have any idea of going down to the site of the United Engineering and Foundry company Saturday afternoon and taking pictures of that giant stack being dropped, skip them. Visitors and cameras are out.

The rule against them is not a specious one, set down to prevent people from seeing the stack fall. It is a rule of reason designed to prevent accidents and injuries.

Any person who wants to see the stack fall can see it easily from Atlantic avenue. Were people permitted inside the grounds the possibility of accidents would be increased.

The men in charge of clearing the grounds have a job to do and they are doing it in an amazingly efficient manner. They haven't time to entertain visitors nor to have a crowd of people interfering with their work.

To repeat. If you have any ideas of getting in and taking pictures, forget them.

Awful Uproar Seen On Order On Gas Ration

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—"There's going to be an awful uproar" unless the government can produce a "convincing argument" that there is but two to three gallons of gasoline per week available for the average motorist along the Atlantic seaboard.

That was the attitude taken today by Edward A. Foley, editor and publicity agent of the Keystone Automobile club, when notified of the strict rationing proposed by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

"The army and the navy come first, of course," he said, "but we come second and we don't want another Ickes proposition like last summer.

"The average motorist in Canada gets seven gallons of gasoline and there's no reason why we in the United States should get only two, unless, of course, they simply haven't got it.

"But we're from Missouri and the government is going to have to prove its case this time or there's going to be an awful uproar."

More Than 1400 Find Jobs In April

HARRISBURG, May 8.—Over fourteen hundred former Pennsylvania workers, now idle, entered claims for unemployment compensation against this state during April.

The Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation received 1409 applications from practically every state in the union. However 335 of these claims were disqualified for various eligibility reasons. Some 180 cases are still under investigation.

The April disbursement to these out-of-state jobless workers amounted to $45,467.05. Some 3785 interstate checks were dispatched from the Harrisburg office of the bureau.

Honor Man At Penn State

Albert W. Batten

Albert W. Batten, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Batten, of 324 Reis street, New Castle, will be among the students to receive a degree from the Pennsylvania State College at its commencement on Sunday, May 10. Mr. Batten, who graduated from New Castle High school in 1938, will receive the degree of Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering "with honors."

The designation "with honors" implies that he has maintained the high scholastic average of at least 2.4 out of a possible 3. Most recent testimony to his high scholastic standing has been his election to Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity, and to Tau Beta Pi, honorary fraternity in the engineering field. He has also been elected to Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary, and to Pi Tau Sigma, mechanical engineering honorary. He has been active in the Independent Men's Association, and has been a student member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Job Applications Show Decrease

HARRISBURG, May 8.—"The lowest number of jobless applications in the history of unemployment compensation in Pennsylvania was registered by the Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation during the past week," according to a report issued by Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines.

"Only 1,379 idle workers appeared at the local employment offices to file original claims for jobless benefits between April 7-May 1. This is a clear indication of the present employment situation here in the Keystone state."

Hines continued, "Benefit disbursements covering the same period were very low. Some 27,000 checks were issued in the amount of $291,000."

The bureau's income during the past week was increased by some $5,000,000 in employer contributions. Pennsylvania's Unemployment Compensation Fund now nears $238,000,000.

RANGOON AGAIN HEAVILY BOMBED BY U. S. AIRMEN

high command, issued in Chungking, said that Chinese defense forces in Yunnan Province have beaten off repeated Japanese attacks in the vicinity of Chefang, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

Fierce fighting was said to be continuing around Chefang, 30 miles above the Burmese border with the Japanese launching persistent attacks in an effort to advance northeastward along the Burma road.

A Chinese military spokesman described the present Japanese position in Yunnan as "vulnerable," and indicated that the Chinese would undertake a counter-offensive as soon as a strategic opportunity presented itself.

Pound Myitkyita

Meanwhile the Japanese in north-central Burma were reported pounding Myitkyita, communications center through which the Chinese still maintain contact with India.

Forces under command of American Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell were said to have established a new front along an undisclosed area running north of Mandalay and Lashio.

(The Japanese claimed in a Tokyo communique that Nipponese forces had occupied the Irrawaddy river port of Bhamo, 80 miles south of Myitkyita.)

(The News Chronicle in London reported a dispatch from Calcutta in which it was said that a Japanese spearhead had taken up positions in western Burma athwart the route of British forces withdrawing to the northwest. The dispatch said that if Gen. Harold Alexander's withdrawal through the Chindwin valley is to be a success it must now smash the road block established by the Japanese.)

line running south from Lake Ontario in New York state to a point between Altoona and Harrisburg, on through West Virginia. Territory west of this line would not feel the rationing program, he said.

Congressman Samuel A. Weiss said the recommendation would be approved, that it was a mere formality. The route of the demarcation line is to be announced within the next two or three days. To avoid confusion, it was understood it would not cut through any city or town.

The western New York non-rationed area will be all territory west of Rochester.

Only the five eastern counties of West Virginia—the borderline counties next to Virginia—would be included in the rationed territory, it was understood.

Flier Believed Lost, Returns To U. S. Air Base

Lieut. Dick Lauder Makes Way Back To Mates After Being Shot Down

By PAT ROBINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

AN ADVANCED UNITED NATIONS OPERATIONAL BASE, Somewhere in the South Pacific, May 8.—The boys had given Lieut. Dick Lauder up for lost.

They'd seen him dive down on a Japanese cruiser and blow its bow off with a smashing direct hit. And then they'd seen the Jap Zeros drop out of a cloud above him, blazing away with machine guns that sent his plane spiraling toward the water.

But Dick Lauder, a Los Angeles native son, wasn't ready to be counted out. He made a forced landing in the surf only 15 miles from a big Japanese troop concentration and, with his gunner, trudged five days through the jungle until friendly natives gave the two Americans a small boat that carried them to safety.

There were no histrionics, however, when Dick made his sudden appearance from the land of the dead. No backslapping, no excited congratulations. His pals received him with studied casualness and Zeke Summer said gruffly:

"Hell, now I suppose I've got to return those ships of yours I've been using."

And Charley Abel of Denver growled:

"Yes, and I suppose you'll want your sox back."

That's the way it almost always is when one of these lads comes back from a story-book exploit. They're an amazingly poised group of young warriors.

Stamina Is Striking

Next to their poise, the most striking thing about them is their stamina. They're in superb physical condition, capable of withstanding great hardships.

"I know from personal experience the excitement and the tenseness that keeps you from feeling tired until your mission is over. But I know, too, that an air battle takes a heavy toll on nerves and physical strength. After a recent four-day mission during which I went on two bombing raids I noticed an intense reaction. I couldn't seem to get enough sleep for the next two days.

When going on a mission the boys get up long before the zero hour. A truck appears from somewhere in the jungle bearing food. They stand around talking quietly while they eat.

Many veteran pilots say they always feel nervous just before taking off, but as is the case with a prize fighter, the nervousness vanishes once the action begins.

They head out over the jungle or the sea or perhaps both. They may run into a hail of anti-aircraft fire or a covey of Jap Zeros. They drop their bombs on the target and dash back home.

Sometimes there's a battle to be fought. The Zeros dive and zoom and twist. The bomber pilot whips his big ship into position so the gunners can blaze away at the Japs. And make no mistake about it—the Japs have learned to respect those gunners.

They've lost so many planes coming down on a bomber's tail that they now keep as far away as possible unless they see a wide opening to dive in and scoot away.

The Japs also have learned that our bombers are tough to knock out. And they've found out that one well-aimed blast will usually bring down their flimsy Zeros in a meteoric arc of smoke and flame.

After they get back, the boys count noses and sit around talking over the raid. If a plane is slow in getting back the boys always "sweat it out", which is the airman's term for pulling hard for a pal.

Incidentally, they speak a language all their own, using words not generally found in the dictionary.

Whenever possible they get a day or two to play and relax somewhere. Then they're ready for another mission.

Seeking Jobs For Older Men

Employment Service Here Making Special Effort To Aid War Program

Throughout this week, proclaimed by the President as National Employment Week, the local office of the United States Employment Service will cooperate with veteran's organizations and other civic, labor, and business groups in an intensive drive to find "Jobs for Men over 40." Raymond J. Latchaw, manager of the New Castle office today announced that his office, working with the American Legion and other veteran's organizations, will make an effort to place on jobs, preferably war production jobs, unemployed older men in this and in neighboring communities.

Mr. Latchaw said that business and labor organizations, churches, and other civic groups, are cooperating with the Employment Service in accomplishing the objectives of National Employment Week.

"We shall, of course, continue to carry on the day-by-day work of placing on jobs all unemployed men and women and those who have asked for transfers from their present jobs to those in war production plants or those turning out essential consumer goods. But this week we shall concentrate particularly on our older unemployed workers. We cannot, of course, undertake a house to-house canvass or go into the street and ask a man whose hair is becoming gray if he has a job. However, we urge unemployed workers over 40 to register at the employment office and give us an opportunity to refer them to jobs for which they are qualified."

The President's proclamation, Mr. Latchaw said, placed emphasis upon finding jobs for veterans. The President pointed out that "these men who were in the ranks of America's military forces in 1917 and 1918 not only can serve, but are vitally needed in the ranks of industry and agriculture today. They had something to give in youth and valor then; they have something to give in experience and skill today."

May Now Have To Bring Own Sugar

Ration Board Refuses To Grant Rationing Books To Governor At Present

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8 — Cabinet officers, politicians, guests and those who just drop in for a cup of tea at the executive mansion henceforth may have to bring their own sugar, Gov. Arthur H. James today intimated.

Pointing out that the governor's household consisted of 11 persons, the chief executive disclosed that their rationing registrar had refused to grant the governor, Mrs. James and Miss Dorothy James ration books until they have used up 50 pounds of sugar now on hand.

The governor said he thought the registrar should have taken into consideration the eight employes at the mansion, who make their home there. Instead, he said, each employe must get his own ration book.

"So when we run out of our 50 pounds of sugar, we'll have to depend on our employes' ration books, because under the present rules we're supposed to have about enough sugar for the rest of the year," commented the governor.

Thus, when the 50 pounds of sugar are used, Mrs. James, when ordering sugar, will be forced to use the ration books of the employes at the mansion until all their stamps are used up. After that the governor and his immediate family will be entitled to their own ration books.

"I think perhaps I'll have to put that 50 pounds of sugar under lock and key," jocularly remarked the governor.

Urge Dairymen To Resist Lewis

Farmers Gather At State College To Consider Lewis' Union Drive

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 8.—Pennsylvania dairymen today were urged to resist the efforts of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to unionize the nation's dairy industry.

C. L. Dickinson, Cortland, N. Y., head of the Free Farmers organization representing dairymen in the New York state milk shed, called upon Pennsylvania producers to join the battle against Lewis' drive.

"We feel this is a fight to determine whether democratic principles can survive or whether we must have a country controlled by a giant monopoly." Dickinson told representatives of Pennsylvania farm groups last night at State College.

"If Lewis can gather together under his leadership all the farmers of one kind in connection with a great labor organization we would have the greatest monopoly the country has ever seen," he added.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania Association of Cooperative Organizations and the Pennsylvania Council of Farmers called for the establishment of a national milk industry committee and favored the selection of committees to represent farmers in connection with the tire and gasoline rationing and price ceilings.

Thursday's session was closed with the re-election of President Mark N. Witmer, Dalmatia, and the election of Walter C. Nickles, Shippensburg, secretary-treasurer, and Reed Welch, Burgettstown, vice-president.

Circus Members Have To Attend School Sessions Too

That every circus member has to go to school whether human or beast, is demonstrated by some of the folks coming with Wallace Brothers Circus to New Castle on May 11 and there will be all sorts of new features which the circus has arranged for this year. Little "Pal" who is a member of the big show it seems, has forgotten some of his lessons and has to stay after school. Even the aerialists and their performers often brush up on their lessons between shows the same way, but it all goes to make up life under the big tops.

Clowns and more clowns! In fact clowns of every size and description will be presented circus day when the new and larger Wallace Brothers Trained Animal Circus unloads in New Castle for afternoon and evening performances on May 11. The show ground situated on Butler avenue will be the meeting place for youngsters big and small who delight in the jovial antics of their favorites of the big top.

important ingredients necessary to please the circus loving public are plenty of elephants, aerial stars, riding acts.

As an exclusive feature in the Big Top will be Baron Richard Nowak, the smallest man in all the world, who stands only 23 inches tall, weighs 17 pounds, and has just passed his 20th birthday. He sings, dances, recites, can converse in three different languages and is a very versatile entertainer.

It is a mutual feeling between the kiddies and the gay buffooners who delight in driving dull cares away. Clowns like little boys and girls, for it is the youngsters appreciation of the ancient are of clowning.

Internationally famous funny fellows have been gathered from all parts of the world and the circus realizes that its success depends upon a well balanced program of these lovable characters. Also other

Woman Dies At Age Of 101 Years

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., May 8—Services were arranged today for Mrs. Elizabeth Sheaffer Wentzel, who died at the Rural Rest Home, Eden, at the age of 101.

Mrs. Wentzel, oldest member of Grace Lutheran church, advised people to "live the simple life" to achieve longevity. She believed in early rising and attended church regularly until four years ago.

She was proud of her cooking and, until her recent illness, cared daily for flowers and plants at the home and sewed and braided rugs. Her father fought in the Civil War and her grandfather, whom she remembered, fought in the war of 1812.

"WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES"

Stock Market As Whole Is Buying Zone At Present Is Sentiment Of Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1942—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

NEW YORK CITY, May 8.—Without commenting upon individual issues, it certainly seems to me that the stock market as a whole is in a buying zone. Naturally, in view of conditions, the market has been very sensitive for some months with the emphasis of movement on the downside. This has been occasioned mainly by domestic industrial upheavals, the uncertainty of the tax and profits situation, and bad news from the war areas.

BABSON

Position of Foreign Markets

Considering all that Great Britain has been through and particularly with the Germans sitting only 20 miles away from the British Isles, one would naturally expect a badly-acting London market. Stocks on the London Exchange have, however, steadily advanced in the face of falling New York prices. This is likewise true in France, Holland and Germany. Ever since the war started, common stocks have advanced in the countries most affected.

All of these nations have proportionately larger debts than the United States. They have suffered great amounts of property damage. Their tax laws are far more drastic than ours. The regulations and restrictions under which their people work, eat, and live make our price ceilings, priority rules and food controls seem like child's play. Yet in the face of conditions far worse than any which have yet touched our own country, foreign stocks have advanced while the bulk of our own securities have consistently moved downward.

Inflation the Answer

Any historical study of inflation such as occurred both during and after the last war shows that the time ultimately comes when people prefer to own real property and good stocks rather than bonds and cash. Inflationary forces are steadily at work here, but they are further advanced in the countries previously mentioned. We see in our increasing national debt, in the scarcity of consumer goods and in rising prices only the first effects of inflation.

Investors of other nations are ahead of our own group in realizing that cash is no longer the form in which to protect one's capital. Not so here as witnessed by the large amount of money now in circulation. Its total far exceeds any that this country has previously known. Much of this money is held by foreigners who fled Europe. Their fears have been communicated to our own people. As a result, safe deposit boxes are at a premium in most banks. As I have said before, hoarding serves no useful purpose.

Opportunities for Profits

If the American investor is to combat successfully rising prices and rising taxes, he must have more income and increase his capital from which his income is derived. In terms of our pre-war dollar of 1939, a dollar bill today, on the basis of wholesale prices, is worth 76 cents. Hence, it is advisable that these dollars should be put to work. I do not mean they should be used to buy personal and household goods for hoarding purposes. Rather, dollars should be used (remember that compound interest still functions) in legitimate investment channels.

Certain real estate is O. K. War savings bonds and stamps are a "must" in every investment portfolio. However, successful real estate commitments are the exception rather than the rule and no real estate has the marketability of good common stocks. Bonds are approaching an all-time high and, except in instances of certain discount issues, should perhaps not be considered at this time. Thus, we are left with stocks as offering now the best opportunities for profit and income with which to offset the declining purchasing power of the dollar.

Don't Follow the Crowd

Most of my associates and friends are terribly bearish. They talk as though the country was going to the dogs. Conditions may get worse before they start to improve—but what of it? The recent Laval business struck a sour note and off goes the Dow-Jones averages. If the Germans get the French fleet—wham—they may go off some more! Perhaps the market has not as yet discounted all the bad news. If not, so much the better. The lower stocks go, the more attractive they are and the higher their yields. Furthermore, the worse the war gets the quicker it will be over.

I never made a dime following the crowd. When they sell I buy. From the action of the market in recent months some drastic liquidation has been going on. This is a "buy" sign to me. Lack of volume in trading is another favorable indicator. Quiet market days are good ones in which to pick up a few shares. I'd no more buy in a boiling market than I would sail out of Gloucester in a heavy storm. Considering the prospects for some real inflation and the high surplus of cash awaiting investment, a little encouragement is all the market needs to show some real strength. Investors who put cash now into common stocks should profit in the end. They will also perform a real service in easing the ultimate effects of a post-war boom through their being in a position to get out rather than to get in!

Defense Training School Results Are Announced

Night School Defense Courses Bring Benefit To Hundreds In District

Drafting proved to be the biggest job-getting course for Pittsburgh district students as well as the entire state in the Pennsylvania State College's four Engineering, Science, and Management Defense Training program, according to a placement report received today by L. C. Black, administrative head for the New Castle center of the Pittsburgh district.

Based on a survey of approximately one-third of the students enrolled in Penn State's tuition-free program, the report shows that 123 drafting students in the Pittsburgh district got new jobs while 121 were "upgraded" by their companies. The survey was made by the placement offices of the college's extension services. Ranking second were students in foundations of engineering, 38 getting new positions and 58 receiving advancements.

In all courses surveyed in the district, 94 unemployed students got jobs, 246 changed jobs, and 443 were upgraded within their own companies for a grand total of 783 job changes. A comparison with statewide figures in the placement report showed the district ranking first as to the number of students involved in job changes. State totals found 234 unemployed getting positions, 647 changing jobs and 1433 upgraded in their own companies.

Many beautiful presents were given the honor guest. There from out of town were, Walter Barber Jr., of Apollo, Patty Beatty of Vandergrift, Teddy and Frankie Elder, of North Liberty.

The popular expression "get the sack," when meaning "to be discharged," originated in the days when the Sultan of Turkey disposed of members of his harem of whom he had tired by having them put into sacks and thrown into the Bosporus Sea. People slipped into the habit of saying "to get the sack," when meaning they expected to be put out of a position suddenly.

STAGGER WORKING HOURS
(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Staggering of working hours for 200,000 municipal and private office employes is underway in New York City as a wartime measure to relieve rush-hour congestion on subways and other transit facilities.

Among larger concerns to start the system are the Equitable Life Assurance Society, with 5,000 employees; Aetna Casualty and Surety company, with 2,000; Home Life Insurance company, with 1,800, and United States Steel Corporation, with 1,000.

Previous to staggering working hours, some 500,000 passengers were using the subways in peak hours.

Cultivation of rice began in the United States in colonial days in the Carolinas and Georgia, and is now commercially important in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and the Sacramento valley in California. There also are scattered planting in Mississippi, Florida, Alabama and Missouri.

Hitler had incentive enough. A Schickelgruber is almost obliged to make a name for himself.

Soldier Can Forget Alimony, Court Rules

Fort Meade Soldier May Skip $80 Monthly Payments Until After War

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 8.—The wartime precedent that soldiers and sailors may quit paying alimony was fixed by Supreme Court Justice Peter J. Schmuck and no end of fighting men are likely to seize on it avidly.

"There are times when justice must remove the blindfold even though the letter of the law be aggrieved," was the way Schmuck said it.

He ruled that Sergt. Mike McGlynn, formerly of New York and now of Fort Meade, Md., may skip until he returns to civilian life the $80 monthly alimony he has been paying Dorothy Nelson McGlynn.

She won a separation a year ago. McGlynn was drafted April 23, his ninth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. McGlynn, now in Florida seeking a divorce, charged her husband, a Boy Scout commissioner, used scout meetings as a blind to conceal meetings with a girl named Margie.

In granting McGlynn's plea for relief from alimony worries, Schmuck said:

"Every inhibition must be deferred so he may be physically, mentally and spiritually free to devote himself to the greatest task ever to confront him and his country."

As for the wife:

"Even though she is wholly dependent on alimony there exist public agencies to which, as the wife of a soldier, she may apply and receive relief."

Some Good News On Production

(International News Service)

MORE TANKS—The Baldwin locomotive works will be producing ten times as many tanks in its Philadelphia area plant late this year as was planned when the army launched its production program a year ago.

MORE PLANES — The Curtiss Warhawk, successor to the famed Curtis Tomahawks and Kittyhawks, is now in mass production.

MORE TIME — War workers in the Packard Motor Car Company's automatic screw department have voluntarily given up their half hour lunch periods three days a week in a "win-the-war" program.

MORE GIFTS — The American Red Cross has shipped 598,000 "requested" articles, hand-knitted by volunteers, to the nation's armed forces.

MORE RAYON — Domestic production of rayon yarn and staple fibre was 153,900,000 pounds during the first quarter of 1942 as compared with 131,200,000 pounds during the same period last year.

RAVENS ALMOST EXTINCT IN STATE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8. — The raven in Pennsylvania is fast nearing extinction—in fact, game officials claim that a recent survey revealed less than a dozen pairs of birds in the entire state. These remaining birds are to be found only in the remote mountainous sections, and are seldom observed even by natives.

Only a few nesting sites are definitely known, but these are carefully guarded to prevent anyone from collecting the birds or their eggs, a practice which the commission is equally determined to break up in connection with duck hawks.

Plan Graduation For 100 Sailors At Grove City, May 29

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, May 8.—Plans for a formal graduation ceremony for the first contingent of 100 United States sailors, here for special instruction at Grove City college, are being developed by the commandant, Lieut. Grogan, and Russell P. Smith, college director of naval education. The exercises will be held May 29.

An official party from headquarters of the fourth naval district will present service school certificates to the radio operators, second class, who successfully complete the prescribed course. There are 100 men in the first group, who have been at the college here for three months.

Special honors will be conferred upon the ten highest ranking students in two groups.

Morgenthau For Lower Exemptions For Income Tax

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau today proposed that exemptions on individual income taxes be lowered to include 6,900,000 more persons and to produce an additional $1,100,000,000 in federal revenue and bring the total of the new tax program to $8,700,000,000.

In a letter to Ways and Means Committee Chairman Doughton (D) N. C., Morgenthau proposed that personal exemptions be reduced from $750 to $600 for single persons, from $1,500 to $1,200 for married couples and from $400 to $300 for each dependent.

Stressing that such revenues should be in addition to the proposed $7,600,000,000 new tax program, Morgenthau estimated that the reduced exemptions would bring in 6,900,000 new taxpayers.

Morgenthau also emphasized the need for expanding the social security program and increasing such taxes by $2,000,000,000 a year.

MUSIC LOVING BURGLARS

(International News Service)

PASADENA, N. J. — Speaking of soothing music.

The Berry and Grassmuech Record Store recently reported some thug had broken in. An investigation disclosed that a number of records, both swing and classical, had been played. Apparently, the burglars became so enthralled with the music they forgot to rob the place.

Release Man Held As Erie Suspect

(International News Service)

ERIE, May 8 — Edward Gawarecki, 23, of Rome, N. Y., was released today to the Seneca Falls, N. Y., police for questioning in robberies there after Erie police had exhausted all leads in an attempt to link him with the local slaying of a navy petty officer on Good Friday.

Gawarecki, nabbed in St. Louis, led police on a series of wild goose chases with his stories about the slaying of Lloyd Wilkinson, District Attorney Burton Laub said. He termed the youth "a confirmed liar."

Wilkinson, home on furlough, was slain by an unidentified man after being forced from a car in which he had been sitting with his fiancee. State police began searching for new clues in the case.

Oppose Move To Seize Autos

Sharp Opposition To Proposal Is Reported In Congress Bodies

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Sharp opposition rose in congress today to proposals by high officials that legislation be enacted granting authority to requisition private automobiles for war purposes.

A proposed meeting of the senate military affairs commitee tomorrow to act on the requisition bill by Sen. Downey, (D) Cal., may be postponed, Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., committee chairman, said.

"It seems like a ridiculous proposal to me," exclaimed Sen. Herring (D) Iowa. "Of course, if the time comes when the government needs our private automobiles, they will either be given or taken. I believe that the people would give up their cars if they thought it would help win the war.

"But it seems to me to be a mistake to get people all excited when an emergency is not at hand. I don't think there is any need for the legislation at this time. I haven't given up hope that American ingenuity will solve the rubber problem."

Another senator, who declined to be quoted, said that "if the government has to have automobiles the people will give them, so I don't see any need to legislate now."

The bill by McReynolds for seizure of automobiles whose drivers violate a proposed national speed law of 40 miles an hour was vigorously assailed by Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association.

Reynolds, who had declared that the rubber situation is far more critical than has been generally known, denied however, that he proposed to confiscate cars.

"The word confiscation has been over-emphasized," he said. "I am personally opposed to any taking of private property by the government if needs can be met otherwise."

Reynolds said that while there is no immediate prospect of confiscation of either cars or tires, "if it should become necessary as a war measure it would be through orderly and lawful procedure."

Drastic steps can be avoided, he said, if car owners will cooperate in conserving transportation.

Dead Line Set On Road Asphalt Oil

Governmental orders may affect the dirt streets; that is, some of them this summer, word having arrived today that May 10, has been set as the dead line for the purchase of road asphalt oil which is used to prevent dust entering milady's parlor.

Simon Lasky, notified city dads today he could fulfill all of the city's orders but would not say he had sufficient oil to oil all of the dirst streets where oiling may be requested.

One-Room Schools Will Be Closed In Neshannock

Township To End Use Of Painter Hill, Fairview And Mitchell Schools

Next fall will witness the end of one-room schoolhouse in Neshannock Township for the three remaining such schools, Painter Hill, Fairview and Mitchell, will not reopen after the completion of this semester.

The Township's school system will then be run on a consolidated basis, it is announced.

This step has been necessitated by the great increase in population of Neshannock Township in the last ten years.

To take care of the expected increase of students in the larger township schools because of the closing of the last of the one-roomers, addition are being built to the Clen-More and Walmo schools which will be ready when fall comes.

Plans for summer activities were discussed by the Legion of Honor at the meeting in The Cathedral, Thursday evening.

Commander Ralph H. Montgomery named Charles E. Allen, R. L. Boyd, Clare B. Book, and Harry McFeaters on the golf committee, and plans will be made to start golfing activities in the near future.

It was decided to have the annual picnic during the month of July, and a committee will be named later to work out the plans.

NO PARKING ON ATLANTIC AVE. ON SATURDAY

State Motor police and City Police Chief W. G. McMullen today announced a ban Saturday on the parking of cars along Atlantic avenue inside the city limits and also in Moravia street between the Pennsylvania Engineering works and Lutton street. The ban was announced because the more than 300 feet tall cement stack on the United Engineering & Foundry company site is to be lowered.

Both police organizations said parking will be banned because of traffic conditions.

Says Ten Gallons Needed Weekly

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 9—The average motorist cannot get along on less than 10 gallons of gasoline a week without a sharp curtailment of the use of his car, Richard B. Maxwell, secretary-manager of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation contended today.

Maxwell predicted that if motorists were limited to two or three gallons a week "they would be lucky if they could get around their home town in their cars."

"About ten gallons a week would enable motorists to carry on normal activities," added Maxwell.

Gov. Arthur H. James commented:

"This is certainly bringing the war home to the people."

HILL MOVES UP

County Controller Frank W. Hill, the same lad that is mentioned in the paragraph above is in line for promotion in the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps. At the present time he is acting supply officer for the regiment, replacing Captain Al Gough who has entered the armed forces.

Hill has been a sergeant major on the staff of Major Frank A. Weber. It is likely he will get a commission as a captain. Captain Gough is a well known Pittsburgh newspaper man.

NOW FOR GAS

With the sugar rationing registration over, County Controller Frank W. Hill has another headache coming up, the gasoline rationing. All records of the rationing clear through Hill's office and for the past week, he has been working more on rationing than he has on his own job.

INVESTIGATE ACCIDENT

Lieut. Bulkeley Reaches New York From War Areas

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 8.—Lieut. John D. Bulkeley, hero of torpedo boat exploits in the Pacific, came home from the wars today to be greeted by his wife—"the happiest woman in the world"—and see for the first time his son and namesake.

Accompanied by two other navy torpedo men whose daring made history in Philippine waters, Lieut. Bulkeley and his companions, Lieut. Robert Kelly of New York and Ensign George Cox of Watertown, N. Y., beamed happily as they alighted from a plane at LaGuardia airport.

But there was none among the crowd of welcomers more happy than the smiling blonde young woman who dashed forth to embrace the torpedo boat squadron leader. She was Mrs. Bulkeley who only about a month ago gave birth to the little son that the lieutenant was to see for the first time.

Milton, famous English poet, is said to have preferred his "Paradise Regained" to "Paradise Lost."

FIRST OUT

In one of the ward stores, a gentleman customer asked the proprietor, Thursday afternoon, if an article which he had ordered had yet come in. The proprietor answered that it was hard to get as it was on the restricted list, and the customer reminded him, "Don't forget, I'm first out," a railroader's way of saying that he had given the first order for that article.

THE 'CIGS' WERE O. K.

Railroaders will have their fun. While a goodhearted railroader was having his hair cut, one of half a dozen other railroaders sitting around espied a beautiful cigarette case in the former's pocket. It was handed to him to look it over. It was found to be a combination holder and lighter, and also to be loaded with cigarettes. He took out a cigarette and tried out the lighter, passed it to his neighbor, who went through the same routine. The case went all around until inroads had been made on the contents, and all were smoking that "special" brand. The owner desiring to rescue some of the cigarettes, stepped out of the chair and grabbed his property, and all had a hearty laugh.

Guest Speakers At Medical Society

Lawrence County Medical Society Hear Dr. I. M. Pochapin, Harry J. Culliford

"Medical Aspects of Chemical Warfare" was the subject chosen by Dr. Irwin M. Pochapin, of Pittsburgh, when he addressed the Lawrence County Medical society at the Thursday evening meeting, held at The Castleton at 8:30 o'clock.

Dr. Pochapin told about the different kinds of gases used in warfare, some of which cause tears, and other gases cause choking. He also explained the method of cure and treatment for persons who have been gased. The armies of Great Britain and America are well protected and has gas masks, and their training is also excellent which are several of the reasons why the Axis countries have not tried gas poisoning to a great extent.

Following Dr. Pochapin's talk, which was well received, the members enjoyed a first aid demonstration given by Harry J. Culliford, director of the first aid committee of Lawrence county chapter of American Red Cross. Mr. Culliford spoke briefly and showed a sound film entitled, "Before the Doctor Comes". The film showed the detailed procedure that first aiders use in an emergency. Dr. Pochapin was introduced by President Dr. John P. Prioletti, and Mr. Culliford by Dr. Wilbur Flannery. June 4 is the date of the next meeting.

POURING HEALTH DOWN THE SINK?

Housewives have been doing it for years —unknowingly, of course. Only recently have food experts discovered that many of the vitamins and minerals are highly soluble in water, and consequently, are "poured off" with the excess cooking water.

. . . Use Your Electric Range for VITAMIZED Cooking

Controlled, evenly-distributed heat of electric range units make possible cooking with little or no water . . . Vitamins and minerals stay IN the foods . . . That's the answer to more health in foods cooked ELECTRICALLY!

IT'S SIMPLE:

★ 1. Use Little or No Water . . . dissolving and loss of water-soluble vitamins and minerals is held to a minimum.

★ 2. Start Fast—Cook Quickly . . . keeps to a minimum time vitamins and minerals are exposed to heat, liquid and air.

★ 3. Avoid Violent Boiling . . . right amount of heat, accurately controlled eliminates vitamin-destroying effect of violent boiling.

★ 4. Cook in Covered Utensils—Don't Stir . . . no "hot spots" to cause burning or scorching. Air destroys certain vitamins. Foods can be cooked in covered utensils, without stirring.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

NO PRESERVATIVES, BUT GRASS SILAGE POSSIBLE

Farmers can be assured of good quality grass and legume silage put up without preservatives if certain requirements are carefully observed.

The grasses, grains and other non-legume crops, harvested at the bloom stage or later, generally contain enough sugars to result in proper fermentation and keeping without trouble. Mixtures of legumes and non-legumes, where there is more than 50 per cent of the latter, also should be reasonably safe.

In recent years there has been accumulating evidence that if the moisture content is not over 70 per cent, legumes will keep well in the silo without preservatives. The simplest method of reducing the moisture content, where it is higher, is to let the crop wilt. Fresh cut green material, at the usual haymaking stage of maturity, and in normal weather, often carries 75 per cent moisture. In wet periods, and with less mature material, the moisture may reach 80.

If the weather is very dry or the crop more mature, no wilting may be needed. Too low moisture will result in poor packing and trouble with molds because of air in the silo. A simple homemade apparatus has been devised to help determine proper moisture until one has learned to judge it with sufficient accuracy.

Addition of 150 to 250 pounds of corn or corn and cob meal per ton of green material as it was put in the silo has resulted in palatable silage of good odor. Fine salt added at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds per green ton also has seemed to produce good silage.

Work done at the Federal Research Center, Beltsville, Maryland, and at th Ohio agricultural experiment station seems to show that addition of molasses in limited quantity, ground grain, or chopped hay may be very useful when, because of damp weather or other factors, one cannot lower the moisture content to the proper point.

In the present emergency preservatives probably will have to be regarded as a safety factor or as comforting insurance rather than an indispensable necessity.

BEES MUST PRODUCE MORE HONEY AND WAX

Beekeepers of Lawrence county are joining with their fellow producers all over the country in increasing production of honey as a supplement for sugar, beeswax to meet growing industrial needs, and honeybees for pollination of many crops requiring insect pollination to produce either seed or fruit.

The war production board and its predecessor, the office of production management, both recognized the importance of the beekeeping industry by taking the following actions:

(1) Granting the industry an A-3 rating to enable it to obtain materials essential to the manufacture of beekeeping supplies on the basis of 100 per cent of the 1940 level.

(2) Granting beekeepers and apiarists 80 per cent of last year's sugar purchases, on a month by month basis, with the further provision that additional supplies could be obtained by appeal to the sugar section of the war production board.

(3) Providing tin for unlimited packaging of honey in containers of 5-pound capacity and larger.

Orders of package bees for Lawrence county beekeepers have been far heavier than a year ago.

MANAGE RASPBERRIES FOR GOOD PRODUCTION

Make the most of the home raspberry planting.

With newly planted raspberries, cultivation begins soon after the plants are set and continues until early or middle July. With older plantings the cultivation which began in early spring should continue until the end of the harvest season.

Cultivation requirements are: frequent and thorough enough to prevent weed growth and crust on the surface; not deep, because the raspberry is shallow rooted and easily injured by deep cultivation. Occasional hand hoeing will prevent weed growth in the rows. If straw is available, a mulch 4 to 6 inches deep may be used between the rows instead of cultivation.

Vigorous growth is essential to heavy fruit production. The amount of manure and fertilizer required is determined by the vigor of the plants. Manure is particularly valuable to raspberries, since it supplies humus in addition to plant food material. An application of 10 tons per acre in the early spring is suggested.

High nitrogen fertilizers usually are beneficial. An application of 200 to 300 pounds per acre, at about the time growth is starting or soon thereafter, is suggested. On newly set plantings, a side-dressing of about 150 pounds per acre applied in late May will aid in the production of vigorous canes for next year's crop.

EIGHT PER CENT MORE TURKEYS TO BE GROWN

Eight per cent more turkeys will be grown this year than last, if the intentions of producers are realized.

A survey conducted by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, among 5,000 growers who produced 2,500,000 turkeys last year revealed such intentions. Since they had only 5 per cent more breeding hens on hand February 1 than at the same time a year before, more poults per hen must be produced this year.

That this is a very ambitious program is seen when it is recalled that the number of poults per hen last year was relatively high. Then there was a good seasonal demand for both turkey hatching eggs and poults, and as a result the breeder hens were kept longer than usual and a few hatching eggs went to waste. The hatches of total eggs set in 1941 was relatively high.

With a good hatching year more poults can be produced than were available in 1941, but with poorer hatches it is possible that no more poults will be available than last year, even with 5 per cent more hens on farms.

HONEY AS A FOOD

(By Miss Anna Marie Quinn, Home Economics Extension Representative of Lawrence County.)

In a few days we'll be going to the stores to buy our eight ounces of sugar per week per person. To some of us this amount of sugar may seem small, and we may ask ourselves, "How can we satisfy our families with sweets?"

Well, one answer is—serve more fresh fruits that have natural sugars. Another answer is—learn to use sugar substitutes, such as honey, corn syrup, or maple syrup.

Let's consider honey. Honey is a natural sweet that can be used in baking. It also has a place in making candy, in preserving foods, or in sweetening any food where sugar might be used.

Honey has one chief advantage over sugar—honey is more quickly absorbed and digested in the body and it has some slight laxative powers.

When it comes to actually using honey, we'll get best results when we follow special honey recipes. Honey contains more water than granulated sugar and it will hold onto water for a longer time when used in baking. Honey also is somewhat acid in reaction. Because of these differences, it seems advisable to use only tested recipes when baking or cooking with honey. However, honey can be substituted for sugar if you make a few changes. One cup of honey is as sweet as one cup of sugar, but each cup of honey contains about one-fourth cup of liquid. For this reason, there'll need to be some changes made in the amount of flour and liquids you use. Some homemakers have found that if they deduct one-fourth cup of liquid from each recipe in which they use one cup of honey, they have good results. If you have a favorite recipe and want to use honey instead of sugar, it might be well to do a little experimenting.

Another point to remember when baking with honey is—use a lower temperature than you'd ordinarily use for baking. Honey caramelizes quickly and the baked product is likely to have a burnt taste if the heat is too high.

A simple way to measure honey is to dip the spoon or cup in water or use a spoon or cup in which fat has first been measured.

Honey keeps best at room temperature, or about 70 to 75 degrees fahrenheit. Because honey absorbs moisture readily, never store it in a damp place. If honey becomes too thick too pour easily, put the container in warm water until the honey reaches the desired consistency.

Sergeant York Is Commissioned As Army Major

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced Thursday afternoon that Sergeants Alvin C. York and Samuel Woodfill, two outstanding heroes of World War I, have been given commissions as majors in the United States army.

The undersecretary said that the two world famous fighting men are to be assigned to duty with the army ground forces in infantry work.

Paying tribute to them, Patterson said that both were called "the outstanding soldier" of World War I, York by Gen. Foch and Woodfill by Gen. Pershing.

Woodfill was born in Belleview, Ind., Jan. 6, 1883, and enlisted in the regular army at Louisville, Ky., March 8, 1901.

During World War I, Gen. Pershing said of Woodfill that his "deeds of valor were too numerous to mention".

Woodfill was cited for heroism in attacking singlehanded a series of German machine gun nests and killing the crews until reduced to the necessity of assaulting the last enemy detachment with a pick, dispatching them all.

Non-Essential Driving Must Be Eliminated

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8 — Warning that the rubber shortage may become critical if present driving habits are continued, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson today declared that all non-essential driving must be eliminated, including "indulging in petting parties" and trips to football games and other amusements.

He explained that the nation must bear in mind that 98 per cent of the normal raw rubber supply has been cut off due to action in the Far East.

"The wasteful practices of the past will become a memory," Patterson said. "We can't indulge in petting parties and similar errands not essential to the war effort."

Asked if he considered football games essential to the war effort, Patterson said, "I do not."

Patterson added that if private motorists refuse to conserve rubber, "measures will have to be taken."

Says Highways To Take Bad Beating

HARRISBURG, May 8.—Governor Arthur H. James today expressed fear that the secondary roads of the state, especially the "Pinchot roads", will "take a terrific beating" from overweight trucks which are expected to use the highways soon.

Orders issued by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation co-ordinator, open the state highways to "big trucks" beginning June 1 in the interests of rubber and gasoline conservation.

The governor expressed the belief recently that the order would abrogate for the war's duration the state law banning trucks weighing more than 39,000 pounds.

Directors of the exposition decided against the 1942 show because of a possible transportation shortage. At last year's show more than 12,000 animals from all parts of the United States and from Canada were brought to Chicago to compete for prizes. The attendance at the eight-day exposition was in excess of 400,000.

SISTER-IN-LAW DIES

Mrs. H. L. Mortimer of East Washington street has received word of the death of her sister-in-law, Miss Rose Mortimer, in Baltimore, Md.

AROUND CITY HALL

Director of streets, James Gibson, when advised today that there had been reports of bad curbs said such would be investigated. A tire now he agreed, is as valuable as a horse's leg. If a motorist, who uses his car for only pleasure, has a tire damaged, he will be unable to get one, hence the city, as Gibson agrees, should help to protect tires. . . . Auto, tire and gasoline rationing is bound to affect county receipts but not the city's revenue because the city has never received a share from the fuel tax refund although city council started a move years ago to secure a share.

It is possible that no successor to Stanley Treser, transitman, who resigned in the city engineer's department to accept a more lucrative position. At present, John Z. Street, acting engineer, plans to do that work. . . . Youngstown council is now considering a proposed ordinance providing for the emergency suspension of certain building, electrical and plumbing provisions. . . . Some time ago Glenn R. Throop, then city engineer, warned New Castle folk not to start any construction unless they had made inquiry at the department to ascertain if it would comply with zoning regulations. No one should attempt to change residences to duplexes unless inquiry is made, he advised.

City Delinquent Tax Collector Paul Marakas has been authorized to collect 1941 taxes up to September and will receive three percent on the returns. According to city officials, Marakas is the best collector the city ever has had and James Mayberry is the best mercantile tax appraiser and coleletor the city ever employed.

Fruits of John Haven's police reign are noted almost daily. It was he who installed up-to-date measures in the department. He convinced superiors that there was vital need for a fingerprint and photographic department. Previous police had to depend upon photographs or mental pictures to make arrests of criminals. Nowadays, a comparison of fingerprints establishes identities and a thorough record of thousands of criminals is on file. Some of his traffic regulations also have gone far to help minimize traffic accidents. Haven is now in private business.

Judge A. T. Park Moved By Case

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, My 8.—A formal court order today seperated eight-year-old Wendell Glaab of nearby Indiana township, and his pal of the last seven months, a black and tan rat terrier he had named "Schnappsie".

But while it brought a lump to his throat and tears to his eyes, the decree also brought new joy and happiness to Mrs. Sydney Marie Kelsea's four children in Allison Park. The terrier had been theirs, before young Glaab's father found it wandering around 10 miles north of Allison Park and had taken it home to his son as a pet.

Judge Andrew T. Park was so affected by the youth's tearful emotions and sobs that he told the father to go out and buy the boy another pet and he would foot the bill up to $50.

Communist Seeks To Force Name On Election Ballot

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8.—A special election committee headed by Gov. Arthur H. James was under a Dauphin county court order today to show cause why it should not accept the nominating papers of Mrs. Anna Chait, Philadelphia, communist candidate for the legislature, and permit her name to appear on the ballot in the November election.

The governor, Attorney General Claude T. Reno and Secretary of the commonwealth S. M. R. O'Hara, who rejected the petition Tuesday, were directed by President Judge William H. Hargest to prepare their case for a hearing May 25.

Phillip Dorfman, Philadelphia attorney for Mrs. Chait and counsel for the communist party, asked for the court test after the committee members refused to accept the communist petition on grounds the party was committed to a policy that called for the overthrow of the government by force and violence. Dorfman contended the rejection of the petition was a violation of the federal constitution.

Grain Shipments Banned On Lakes

Decree Assures Cargo Space For Movement Of Iron Ore On Great Lakes

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman, banned all grain shipments over the Great Lakes in a sweeping order to assure cargo space for the movement of iron ore.

Eastman's order, which becomes effective May 15, declared that no grain movements can take place from any port or point except by special permit.

The action brought under Eastman's control approximately 340 ships with a gross carrying capacity of nearly 3,000,000 tons. The ships, it was said, are "suited to iron ore cargo."

In addition, Eastman took control of an undetermined number of so-called mixed carriers used in scrap, coal and grain movement.

The order stated that "unless first authorized by a general or a special permit issued by this office, no person shall operate or permit the operation of any vessel which is capable of transportating iron ore, in the transportation of grain from any port, point, or place on the Great Lakes."

However, it was reported that all of the ships will be converted to ore carrying, and that few special permits to move grain will be granted.

few special permits to move grain will be granted.

"Diversion of grain tonnage to the railroads will be necessary in order to assure maximum carrying capacity for iron ore," Eastman said. "Certain adjustments will probably have to be made in railroad operations to handle the added burden, but thus far the railroads have met every freight emergency with remarkable efficiency. I am confident that I can count on them in this instance."

Victory Gardeners Will Get Awards

Certificates Will Be Presented To Those Who Enroll In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 8.—With victory gardens being planted in ever-growing numbers throughout Pennsylvania, the state council of defense advisory victory garden committee has announced plans for awarding certificates and special garden markers to all victory gardeners.

The certificates, bearing the state coat-of-arms and suitable for framing, will be distributed this week to county victory garden committees. Persons who already have enrolled, or who enroll later, will be awarded certificates.

Garden markers will be in the form of tin cans painted red, white and blue and displayed on a stick thrust into the ground at the edge of the garden plot. Local victory garden chairmen have been asked to arrange with Boy and Girl Scouts to paint tin cans and distribute them to all participating gardeners.

When Jefferson Davis was released from Fortress Monroe, and was brought before the United States circuit court at Richmond, Va., in 1867, he was admitted to bail in the sum of $100,000. Horace Greeley was one of his bondsmen.

Ohio Father And Two Sons Stationed At Indiantown Gap

(International News Service)

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., May 8. Three members of one family, a father and his two sons, are stationed at Indiantown Gap military reservation—all soldiers of the same company.

Staff Sergt. Leroy Osman, 41, of Manchester, O., and his sons, Sergts. James and William, 20 and 19 respectively, have been members of the same company for the last year and a half and consider soldiering together not much different than home life.

"We took orders from dad at home and we don't mind doing it here," declared James. The elder Osman has been in the army for 18 years and considers it "a good life."

The male gorilla sleeps at the foot of a tree to guard his family against these foes.

World Watches Outcome Of Naval Battle

Naval Encounter Rages In South Pacific With Unceasing Fury

By J. C. OESTREICHER
I.N.S. Foreign Editor

A major naval and air battle, perhaps the most important encounter the seas have known since Jellicoe put the Imperial German Navy to flight at Jutland in the last war, raged with unceasing fury in the southwestern Pacific today. At least 16 Japanese warships fell victim to sharp-shooting American gunners.

Fitted against one another on even terms for the first time since the war began, one seeking further aggression and the other vengeance for Pearl Harbor and Java, the Japanese and United States fleets clashed in deafening combat in the Coral sea, south of the Solomon Islands.

As night fell and lights glared in the Australian headquarters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, fragmentary reports straggled in to tell how, after weeks and months of weary waiting, the American battle fleet had at last come within shooting range of a major part of the enemy's navy.

First reports said American losses were "slight," despite bombastic claims put forth by Tokyo, while the Japanese appeared to have suffered disastrously. Listed as sunk were one enemy aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, two destroyers, four gunboats, one transport and one supply ship. Damaged were another aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, a 9,000-ton seaplane tender and a cargo vessel.

Developments in Burma, Madagascar, continental Europe and the embattled Russian front all were subordinated to this great test of strength in the Coral sea.

Prime Minister John Curtin, overjoyed with all his fellow-Australians by announcement that at least 16 Japanese ships and eight enemy planes already are out of action, nevertheless emphasized that the situation is grave and will continue to be until or unless the enemy fleet is disposed of.

Invasion still is a menace and may become an actuality any hour, he said, but he paid lavish tribute to the skill and courage of the American officers, seamen, gunners and fliers striving at this moment with all their might and main to punish the Japanese for past sins and discourage them from future aggression.

It may be days before the final outcome is known and there were many factors that cried for explanation. Even the original mission of the Japanese force was shrouded in mystery. London observers thought that the fleet may have been sent out to attack and invade New Hebrides or New Caledonia. But Curtin's warning made it look as though the Japanese may have intended the more ambitious undertaking of a landing on Australia itself.

Hull Declares U. S. Is Elated

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today said government officials are "much elated" over the reports of America's naval victory in the Coral Sea.

Hull added that officials are "eagerly seeking every fact relating to the entire battle that has been raging between the opposing fleets."

Awarded Navy Cross

Wearing the Navy Cross awarded to him by President Roosevelt is Lieut. Jim D. Miller. He received the medal for gallantry in the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor. New Castle Rotarians Attend Fifth Annual District Conference At Butler

HONOR M'FATE WHO IS GOVERNOR

New Castle Rotarians turned out in large numbers at the fifth annual conference of the 175th District, Rotary International, at Butler Thursday, and many others are in attendance today the concluding day of the meeting, honoring J. Lee McFate, local Rotarian, who is District Governor.

Many interesting addresses were heard on Thursday, two New Castle men being on the program, the luncheon speaker being Hon. W. Walter Braham, judge of the Lawrence county courts, who spoke on the Bill of Rights.

Frank L. Burton, Superintendent of Schools-elect, spoke on Youth Service at the afternoon session.

Moss Lauderbaugh, president of the Ellwood City Club presided at the noon luncheon.

The conference banquet on Thursday evening was attended by 725 persons, and it was necessary to send many of those who came to another location to eat. Dr. Roy W. Wiley, president of the Butler Club, was toastmaster, and music was rendered during the evening by New Castle's famous Schubert Sextette. Greetings were also brought at the banquet by District Governor McFate. The address of the evening was given by Dr. John L. Davis, of New York, who spoke on "Philosophy, Facts, and Fun."

Today's program will be concluded at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the morning program being featured by addresses on Rotary's program, particularly as it applies to the world at war, with Third Vice President Arthur S. Fitzgerald addressing the noon luncheon.

Blue Birds Are Becoming Scarce

While Owen Fox was working at the park on the Diamond, a few mornings ago, one of our citizens who is a lover of birdlife, asked what has become of the blue birds, having seen very few. The latter stated that during the past 10 years he has had these birds nesting in a box near an old apple tree on his premises.

Mr. Fox states that he has only seen two blue birds this spring, sorry to say. There are two things that may account for this. Three years ago, into the far south, winter struck with a rigid hand, which caused thousands of blue birds to be frozen to death.

Another cause is the house cat, as the blue bird falls an easy prey to this prowler, as these birds build their nests in small holes of trees, not high from the ground. These birds are one of the most peaceful of the bird clan, therefore is "easy picking" for these felines, which continues to lessen the blue bird family every year.

Huss Sends Copy Of Book To Hitler

Inscription On Flyleaf Is Addressed To Hitler In Person By Newsman

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 8 — Pierre J. Huss, formerly Chief Berlin Correspondent of International News Service, today placed in the mails a copy of his book "The Foe We Face" addressed to Adolf Hitler, the Wilhelmstrasse, Berlin.

The volume, which deals extensively with the crimes of the Nazi regime and personalities responsible for them, bore the following inscription on its flyleaf:

"Adolf Hitler:

"To your ultimate and inevitable destruction and to the complete defeat of the foul, unspeakable rule of force and filth you have tried to establish throughout the world, I dedicate this copy of "The Foe We Face." If these disclosures of the private lives and public sins of the murderers, madmen and knaves with which you have surrounded yourself contribute in the least measure to the rising tide of hatred and all-out war against everything that Hitlerism means and implies, I shall consider my job well done.

Pierre J. Huss."

Sixty Passengers Somewhat Shaken

(International News Service)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 8.—About 60 passengers were shaken up but none suffered serious injury today when a three-car Hudson-Manhattan tube train was derailed between the Grove Street and Erie stations in Jersey City, halting service on two main lines.

The accident, paralleling closely that of April 26 when five persons were killed and upwards of 200 injured at the exchange place station, delayed thousands of commuters.

Cause of today's accident, which will result in suspension of service for "some time," was not determined immediately, according to a company announcement."

Memorial Day Group Will Meet

Plans Will Be Furthered At Meeting Monday Evening For Coming Observance

Plans for the observance of Memorial Day will be furthered at a meeting of the general committee, which will take place in the Legion Home, Monday evening, May 11, General Chairman C. Ed. Brown announced today.

Details for the celebration are gradually being worked out, and it is expected that a larger number will participate in this year's observance, honoring as it does, the dead of all American wars.

Preakness Like Question Mark

Maryland's Famous Turf Feature Saturday Is Mixed Up Affair

SHUT OUT, DIVER ALSAB FAVORITES

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 8 — They've called it the Preakness for years but this year's running of old Maryland's most famous turf feature could more properly be labeled "the race of the three question marks."

Forget about that favored Greentree entry of Shut Out, Kentucky Derby winner, and his stable-mate Devil Diver, for a moment and consider a trio of problem children who may make both of them and eight or ten other possible starters nothing more than agate names in the "also rans."

We're speaking of Alsab, Colchis and Sun Again. If anyone other than the Greentree entry winds up favorite it's liable to be Alsab, the little guy who electrified last week's crowd at Churchill Downs by coming out of the clouds with a stretch drive that brought him second money in the Blue Grass classic.

Question mark No. 2, Sun Again, was one of the fastest two year olds seen around the east in a long while. He hasn't run much this year, having had a great deal of trouble after being shipped from "blacked-out" Santa Anita to Lexington, Ky. He was also "fired" twice and has trouble becoming acclimated.

What they are asking about Sun Again is: "Is he as good as he was as a juvenile?" If he is, most of the railbirds think he can cakewalk home.

How About Colchis?

No. 3 on our hit or miss parade is Colchis. Here's the forgotten man of racing. This colt ran sixteen times, both as a juvenile and as a

Pennsy Commish Asks Purse Cut For Army Funds

Commission Calls Upon Promoters To Deduct 2 Per Cent From Fighters

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission today called upon all boxing promoters within the state to deduct two percent of each fighters purse for the Army-Navy war relief fund.

Leon Rains, chairman, pointed out that the boxers would have to agree to the deduction. But, he added, the commission does not expect to receive one refusal because "all of us, promoters and boxers alike, feel we cannot do too much." Promoters themselves, Rains said, should run benefit shows "as many already have done."

Through the plan, the commission hopes to raise a "considerable sum" during the war's duration. The boxing game everywhere wants to do everything it can, Rains commented, and undoubtedly the plan will spread to other states.

Constantino's Ring Streak Is Smashed

Like Joe DiMaggio, Streak Stops At 56; Chalky Wright Wrecker

NEW YORK, May 8 — Joe DiMaggio and Lulu Constantino, who both perform around New York City, have two things in common.

DiMaggio, who electrified the baseball world by hitting safely in 56 games, was stopped in his 57th clash.

Constantino, a great fighter, ran his string to 56, like DiMag, and last night was stopped in his 57th battle.

Chalky Wright ended the streak by winning an eight-round decision over the New Yorker before 6,000 fans.

Wright, a negro, is 34.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

With the City Baseball league ready to launch another season, Len Gilbert, in behalf of the loop, has asked the desk to pass along the following appeal to Lawrence county's followers of the national pastime:

"This year, above all, the league needs the support of the fans. With the world in a turmoil and nothing at all certain, we are going to try to keep the league going to the end. You fans can enjoy your baseball and help us, too. Here's how:

"When you fans go to a ball game, give what you can, no matter how small, but give. Baseballs cost $18.00 a dozen; bats $2.00 each; umpires $4.00 on week nights and $5.00 on Sundays. So you can see that it costs about $6 or $7 for a twilight game and between $8 and $10 for a Sunday game, provided no bats are broken and only one ball is used."

"If these boys are willing to give of their time, use their tires and gas, for no reason other than the sport of the game and to give you fans entertainment at a time when the country needs it, surely you fans won't let the kids down. They will appreciate your patronage and will give the best they can. Keep 'em playing. Len Gilbert."

Rudy York will receive a $4,000 bonus if he drives in 100 or more runs. The way Rudy's slapping the pill, Detroit can hand him the premium now. He has already driven in 23 runs . . . Young Phil Rizzuto, 23-year-old New York Yankee shortstop, ranks among the most talented bunters in baseball . . . About 1,500 ex-Big Ten athletes are in various branches of service.

In his four-year tenure with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Whitlow Wyatt has really had the Boston Braves eating out of his hands, as the saying goes. The right-hander has beaten the Beantowners 10 times, losing only once, 1-0 . . . Answer to several queries regarding Cornelius Warmerdam, pole vault artist: The Piedmont study hall professor smashed the world outdoor record last week, leaping over the crossbar at 15 feet 6⅞ inches.

Here's one way to break a losing streak: Phil Gelfand, City College of N. Y. pitcher, dropped his first three starts. He shaved his mustache. With a naked upper lip, he chucked himself a five-hitter . . . Bantamweight Champ Lou Salica has offered to defend his title for $10,000. Generous fellow, heh.

W. P. I. A. L. Qualifying Event Being Held In Beaver Falls Today

Headed by their coach, William "Bill" Klee, 21 physically fit New Castle high athletes arrived in Beaver Falls early today to compete in the P. P. I. A. L. qualifying meet being held in Reeves stadium.

Uable to secure automobile or bus transportation, due to a government ban, the local cinder path addicts were forced to cover the 18-mile trip by rail, leaving New Castle at 10:02 a. m.

Athletes qualifying in today's meet will be eligible to participate in the district scholastic blue ribbon affair of the spring—the W. P. I. A. L. meet carded for Pittsburgh on Saturday, May 16.

NAVY RELIEF FUND GAME LISTED TODAY

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 8 —This is a proud day for baseball. The New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers clash at Ebbets Field with the entire proceeds going to the Navy Relief Society.

Thus the National League makes the first move in baseball's determined effort to give all possible aid to service relief societies. On August 3 the Giants and Dodgers meet at the Polo grounds with the proceeds going to the Army Relief Fund.

All other teams in both leagues will follow suit later in the season in helping raise funds in like manner. The Yankees cancelled today's scheduled game with the Washington Senators in order that not a single fan be lured away from Ebbets Field.

Only one game is scheduled in the American League, Boston playing at Philadelphia. In the National League, St. Louis plays at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh shows at Chicago. Only two games were played in either league yesterday; the Giants and the Pirates splitting a doubleheader as other games were postponed.

Wilkie Wins Second

Pittsburgh won the opener, 2 to 1, in the eleventh inning with Aldon Wilkie notching his second straight victory. Bob Carpenter yielded 12 hits including a single by Elbie Fletcher to start the eleventh, and Bob Elliott's single off the left field wall after Dom DiMaggio sacrificed.

The Giants were materially aided in winning the nightcap, 6 to 2, when Rookie Jim Maynard hit his first home run in the big time with two aboard in the seventh inning.

Not a single person will enter Ebbets Field today without laying cash on the line. This includes players, umpires, newspapermen, officials and ground attendants. Fanned by the usual rivalry surrounding a battle between the interborough rivals and the chance to lend air to men in the service the game is expected to attract approximately 40,000 fans.

The Giants, determined to even the series in which the Dodgers now hold a 2 to 1 edge, will use their ace moundsman, Cliff Melton. The Dodgers plan on using either Whitlow Wyatt, Kirby Higbe or Ed Head.

Coon Hunters' Meet Saturday Afternoon

Plans have been completed for Saturday afternoon's annual spring field trial of the Lawrence County Coon Hunters association.

The event will be held at "Herb" Houk's farm near the Harbor bridge.

Entries will be accepted starting at 1 o'clock.

The event is limited to night dogs.

Three other 10-rounders will pair off the following boys: Ken Overlin vs. Charley Burley; Mose Brown vs. Jack Marshall, and Mike Raffa vs. Joey Archibald.

GIANTS DROP PITCHER EAST

PITTSBURGH, May 8 — Rookie Hugh East, right-handed pitcher, has been released by the New York Giants to Jersey City of the International League, it was disclosed Friday night shortly before the Manhattan team departed from here.

City Loop Openers Sunday Afternoon

Sunday's games, which will start promptly at 3, pair:

three year old, and was never out of the money. Then he entered the Wood Memorial, the East's Derby pre-view at Jamaica two weeks ago, ran a bad race, finished far back—and was promptly forgotten.

In his first two starts this year he won in an allowance race, again defeating Alsab, then whipped both Alsab and Requested in the Chesapeake Stakes. Then came the Wood and his first real set-back of a sparkling career.

So they forgot him.

Maryland hasn't forgotten him, however, and you can bet all the Defense Stamps in Little Lawton's book they'll be plenty of them backing him tomorrow.

There they are—the quiz kids of the Preakness.

One of them may have the answer.

Hale America Golf Open On June 18-21

Gigantic Links Meet, Scheduled For Chicago, Will Lure 50,000 Fans

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 8 — Far from being in danger of cancellation, the Hale America National Open Golf tournament will attract in the neighborhood of 50,000 fans during the four days of its progress at the Ridgemoor Country Club in Chicago.

This was the prediction today of Thomas G. McMahon, President of the Chicago District Golf Association. McMahon appeared in a slight huff at the statement of Ed Dudley, President of the Professional Golfers' Association, that the entry list was far below expectations and that "if we don't get the proper response, it looks like the tourney will have to be cancelled."

McMahon's comment on this was:

"I can't understand Dudley's negative attitude. After all, 1,163 entrants with some days to go before entries are closed at the U. S. G. A. office in New York May 13, seems to me to indicate quite a bit of interest.

"That total, which I assume is correct if Dudley says it, compares favorably with the biggest National Opens ever held. I think Ed really meant to be giving the tournament a boost, and to urge more entries, in which he is right. But it is unfortunate that any possibility of cancellation was suggested."

The tournament is scheduled for June 18 to 21, inclusive.

John Rigney Plans To Twirl Saturday

Chicago White Sox Pitcher Remains Tight-Lipped Regarding Draft

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 8.—Though he has indicated a preference for the navy, Pitcher Johnny Rigney, whose latest draft classification stands in 1A, remained tight-lipped today on his immediate plans beyond planning to pitch for the White Sox against the St. Louis Browns on Saturday.

The ace Chicago hurler, who has swung back and forth between the 4F and 1A draft classes several times in the past year, yesterday visited Lieut. Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, who now pilots the baseball team at the Great Lakes naval base.

Officials of his draft board said he probably will be called in June. Rigney was previously deferred because of a perforated ear drum.

THE WINTER CO.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 8.—At the start of this baseball season somebody wisely said that big, right-handed Ernie Bonham would be the key man in the New York Yankees' attempt to retain the American League championship. The Yankee pitching appeared to be just good and what they would need would be a flinger able to flirt with 20 or more wins and stop any bad streaks that might threaten. Well, Bud, it's Bonham all right, all 210 pounds of him.

All things considered; he has the best record of any pitcher in the league right now and looks like a pretty good bet to win himself 25 games or thereabouts if he gets a chance to work often enough and no tough luck befalls him.

Won Nine In '41

Winner of only nine games in 1940 and a like number last season, Bonham already has scored four straight this season, three of them by shutouts. He bagged his third goose-egger Wednesday, a five-hitter, to give the Yanks' their fifth win in a row, to put the Yankees back in the league lead, to hand the Cleveland Indians their fourth straight loss and to stop that young Jim Bagby. The latter had scored five in a row until he locked up with Bonham and blew by 3 to 0.

Bonham is another of the inumerable Californians who find their way into the Yankee chain. He came up via of Kansas City and looks as though he is a certainty to cash in at the age of 29 with the best record of his career. He never won more than ten games at Kansas City, and his biggest year was 17 wins in the coast league.

And he enjoyed the latter stratospheric record only one year, while threatening all the time to become a real great with his well-known fork ball. He was going great his first year up with the Yanks when a back ailment laid him low, then toward the close he began to come on again and he was the key pitcher in the Yanks' late surge that nearly nipped the Tigers. That was in 1940, when he lost only three against his nine wins.

Last year threatened but never quite made it during the season to win nine again against six defeats, but proved his worth in the Yanks' world series triumph over the Dodgers in five games.

Tossed Clincher

Bonham pitched the clincher, that fifth game against Whit Wyatt and turned in a four-hitter to win by 3 to 1. He allowed only one hit after the third inning. Toward the finish he looked as though he could pitch all day. Perhaps he could. If those miseries don't come back on him he plans to show the rest of the league a few things this season. Or putting it another way he already is showing them a few.

Actually, he could be the big difference between the Yankees and the other contenders for the pennant—the Fellerless Indians and a potential fine Red Sox nine, neither of which seems to have a hurler the equal of Bonham unless perhaps it may be Bagby, beaten by Bonham.

Lou Boudreau, the shortstop-manager of the Indians, thinks his club is better, as a whole, without Feller because the players have experienced a life in knowing that they have to win the 25 or 30 games behind others that might have been simple had Feller returned to the club, as he would have, of course, but for the war.

Anyway you look at it, however, it still seems a little bit of all right to have a guy like Feller around to stop losing streaks and get that important game here and there when it means the big difference.

Such a guy as Bonham threatens to be this season for the Yanks.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Jack Dunlevy, president of Butler, a farm for the New York Yankess, today telephoned the writer that Al Orlando, Seventh Ward diamond pastimer, has had his try-out with Butler but because of lack of hitting power may have to wait another year before he is a regular with the Butler club. Jack, said Al, in preseason games, ran the bases well, was a good fielder and had a good arm. His only weakness, and that was what cost him a berth was power at bat. According to W. C. Faust, sports editor of the Butler Eagle, "Al, a graduate of the Atlantic baseball school team last year, seems promising but lacks hitting power. Defensively he has played great ball in exhibitions." No doubt Al will get another chance with the Butler club next spring.

Since the passing of Jack Blackburn, former local fighter and developer of Joe Louis, many are wondering if the world's champion, will give up the game entirely or, lacking Blackburn's advice, become muddled and prove prey the next time he crawls through the ropes. Frank Ward, sports editor of the Youngstown Vindicator, a shrewd of things fistic writes: "I cannot agree with the opinion so often expressed that since Blackburn is gone Louis will lose in fighting. I would rather believe that Jack's passing will stir Joe to new heights—give him more drive, more anxiety to win in the memory of the man who made him what he is—as a fighter."

For years now, baseball writers have been handing Del Baker of the Detroit Tigers oodles of praise for his ability to steal the signals of the opposition, while coaching at third base. But Del couldn't stand it any longer. A short time ago he made a public announcement that he never stole a signal while coaching at third base for 10 years. "I never stole a signal, and never tried too," said the Tiger boss. With Baker debunking the story about himself, Art Fletcher now remains the one big-wig of the signal stealing corps. This Yankee coacher is said to be quite adept at grabbing off the tips of the other club, but he will not confirm or deny that his work in any way contributes to the success of the Yankees. Del Baker says try-to steal signals while coaching at third base is one of the most dangerous jobs on a ball field. "There is always a chance that the opposition will cross you up, then your own team is in a worse predicament than if they paid no attention to the signals. Quiet, unassuming, self-effacing Del Baker wouldn't sleep well if he thought he was being credited with wisdom that was really not his.

Rumor Odell Next Yale Grid Mentor

Ex-Pitt University Great Headed For Post; Now Serving Wisconsin

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 8.—Dame Rumor, the gal who conducts those whispering campaigns, today said Howard Odell would be the new football coach at Yale university. Odell is now an assistant to Coach Harry Stuhldreher at the University of Wisconsin.

While Yale authorities refused comment, it was reported that the Yale athletic advisory committee would submit the name of Odell to the university corporation council meeting scheduled for Saturday.

The search for Yale's 27th football coach began after Emerson "Spike" Nelson resigned last year after the sons of Eli duplicated their 1940 record by dropping seven of their eight games. The 1940 coach was Raymond "Ducky" Pond.

Odell, who graduated from Pittsburgh in 1935, played for some of the greatest elevens which Jock Sutherland ever produced. After graduation, he served a year as backfield coach for Jock and then went to Harvard where he served in a similar capacity. He did a stretch at Pennsylvania before going to Wisconsin.

Dougherty Quits As Boro Treasurer

Harry C. Hancher, Former Officer, Elected To Fill Vacancy By Boro Council

ELLWOOD CITY, May 8—The resignation of J. J. Dougherty as boro treasurer was presented and accepted by the Ellwood council at the regular May meeting held last evening, and former treasurer, Harry C. Hancher, was named to fill the vacancy. Mr. Dougherty's resignation stated that his business required him to be out of town much of the time.

Dougherty was nominated by Harry Caplan, and James Meniece nominated Ray Aylesworth. Council ruled that the nominations had been closed before Meniece made his nomination.

The sum of $250 for the city Memorial Day expenses was approved. By a 5-5 tie vote, a motion to purchase a new extension truck for the fire department was lost. Caplan and Biordi objected to the purchase of the truck stating that it cost two thousand dollars more than last year, when they advocated the purchase of a new truck. Caplan said the price of about $17,000 was almost half off the total budget.

It was agreed to have the traffic light re-installed at the intersection of Second street and Fountain avenue, and to have regulation corner lights installed as soon as they could be secured.

A resolution that $18,198 be transferred from boro funds to the Pershing street fund was adopted. Boro Manager Lowell W. Monroe has been instructed that work cannot begin on the Pershing street improvement until the priority rating is used by the war production board. It is expected to be received soon.

Whether or not the city streets are oiled this year also depends on the war production board which gives permission to the state highway department to determine if the oiling is absolutely necessary.

A recommendation was made that health committee chairman, J. A. McCandless and health officer, Lewis Young, attend a state health convention to be held in Pittsburgh on May 14, 15 and 16.

The finance committee approved a request of the defense council that five dozen shovels and the same amount of flash lights and buckets be purchased at the sum of $110 for use of the air raid wardens.

An ordinance closing the public dump, in Wampum avenue, was passed, and in the future all noncombustible materials are to be taken to the new boro dump near Belton. City-wide clean-up week will be observed on Monday and Tuesday throughout the entire boro. Boro trucks will pick up the rubbish, which is to be left in boxes along the curbs.

The contract for providing public liability insurance for the boro vehicles was given to Ray Aylesworth. Bids for lots owned by the boro were referred to the street committee.

A resolution that residents on the north side of Wampum avenue be requested to cement the sidewalk was referred to the street committee.

Burgess Clyde Houk reported that the jail had been cleaned and would not be available to transiants until winter.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Today the schools are back to normal . . . sugar registration is over and the teachers all over the country are to be saluted for their fine work in handling the situation. Red tape . . . the government sure can think up yards and yards of it . . . but the Great American Public can handle situations as they come along. Don't forget now folks, to take your sugar stamps with you when you shop for food . . . you cannot get sugar without a stamp.

Tonight there will be a music concert in the High School . . . a very fine program of instruments is planned and there is no charge for admission and there will be no collection taken. Show your support to the New Castle musicians to be by attending this concert.

* * *

From somewhere out on one of our fronts . . . a soldier boy wrote this little poem . . . and it is passed along to you:

Dear Folks:
I'm censored.
Can't write a thing.
Just that I'm well.
And sign my name.
Can't tell when it's sunny,
Can't tell when it rains.
All military secrets
Must secrets remain.
Don't know where I'm going,
Don't know when I'll land.
Couldn't inform you
If met by a band.
Can't tell where we sailed from,
Can't mention the date
And can't even remember
The meals that we ate.
Can't keep a diary,
For such is a sin.
Can't keep the envelopes
Your letters come in.
Can't keep a flashlight
To guide me at night,
Can't smoke a cigarette
Except out of sight.
Don't know for sure
Of what I can do,
Except stamp the envelope
And mail this to you.

Stock Market Records Gains

Initial Reports Of U. S. Naval Victories Buoy Up Stock Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 8.—The stock market extended its recovery today, buoyed by initial reports of U. S. victories in the great naval battle of the south Pacific.

Gains generally were limited to fractions and a few issues moved counter to the trend. Trading was moderately active.

Stocks were firm at the opening and initial gains were increased gradually later.

A few stocks climbed a point or more, including Sears Roebuck and West Penn Electric "A." Bethlehem Steel, ex-dividend 1½, rose almost as much.

Fair-sized gains also were shown by U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, General Electric, Du Pont, United Aircraft, American Tobacco "B," Eastman Kodak and American Telephone.

Independently soft were Engineers Public Service 6 per cent preferred, Union Pacific, Dow Chemical and American Car & Foundry, each down about a point before meeting support.

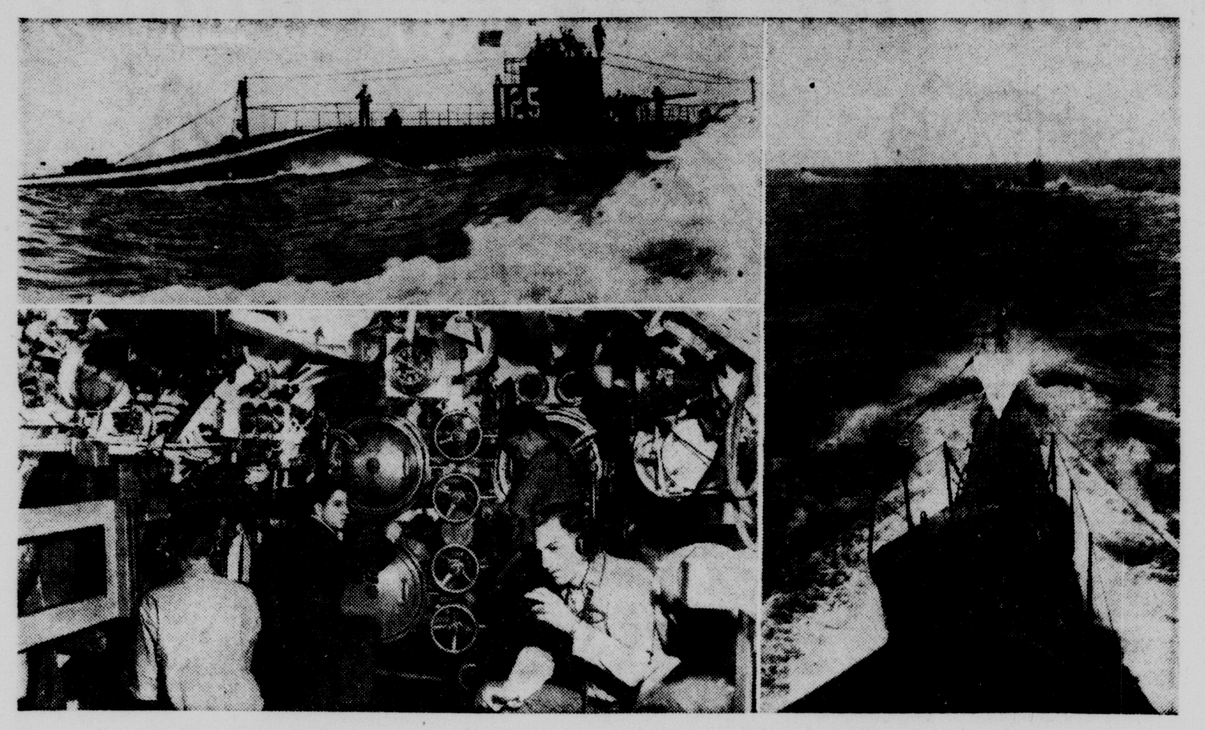
With the United States Navy's Undersea Fighters



These pictures give you an idea of life aboard an American submarine. The sub is playing an important part in the present war and Uncle Sam is building 100 of these "pigboats." Top left, a view of the submarine deck as the crew takes battle stations at the deck gun, while the sub plows along at full speed. Bottom, the torpedo room. Right, if you were standing on the conning tower of a sub, this is how your craft would look forward. In front are two other subs running awash. White patch was placed there by censor. (Central Press)

It's time to check up on your posture

MISS A. B. MARKS

of the S. H. Camp Research Department will be here for consultation and demonstration with Kodachrome slides—

SATURDAY

Poor Posture:—

can ruin the lines of your prettiest dress . . . add years to your looks. But more than that! It strains muscles, crowds internal organs, can cause backaches, fatigue, eyestrain, and even far more serious ills. Naturally, a doctor should be consulted if some specific condition is suspected.

Good Posture:—

helps improve breathing, digestion, muscle-tone — helps guard your health and appearance!

Take part this week in the nationwide program of posture education! Come in and consult our Camp-trained fitter about improving your own posture the scientifically correct way—with the aid of a Camp Anatomical Support.

CAMP Supports — Authorized CAMP Service

We are also prepared to fill doctors' prescriptions for Camp Maternity and Surgical Supports.
